COURT GIRL FORGER GUILTY

QUICKLY FINDS

WEEPS AS HE PLEADS FOR CHILD

The fight of Raymond J. J. Hudson of Dorchester to get the custody of his two-year-old daughter Lucy, who has already faced judges in three States and in three other Massachusetts courts, opened today in the Divorce Court. When the father took the stand to tell the story of his divorce from his first wife, Lucy's mother, he broke down and sobbed. He left the court room for several minutes before he was able to proceed with his testimony.

The child's mother, Mrs. Maude Blabog Hudson, was in court. The mother herself Hudson accuse her of scratching his face once when he tried to kiss her. He also claimed that she had at one time thrown a teacup at him.

Little Lucy was not in court.

Hudson's first marriage was in 1902. After his divorce in 1904 Lucy's father married Miss Gertrude M. Whitehouse at Rutland, Vt. The Hudsons live at No. 22 Hancock street, Dorchester.

Divorced in Vermont.

The child's mother is not the defendant. Those named by Hudson are Maude E. and Annie S. Norton of Dorchester and Lucy Miner, who is said to be the husband's aunt. It was stated that she now has Lee child, who was formerly in the custody of Mrs. Annie Norton of No. 12 Tuttle street, Dorchester. Mrs Norton is also an aunt of the father.

On the stand, Hudson said he had divorced his first wife in Vermont.

"She was cruel," he said. "She would drink and would whip little Lucy, who was an infant then. Why, I had to stay at home and help feed the baby. That was part of my household duties.

"After a spite of all our quarrels, I always kissed her before I went to work. Once when she was washing the dishes I went up behind her. I intended to give her the usual goodbye kiss.

"But she turned and dug her finger nails into my face and neck. She threw a teacup at me and cut my wrist.

"I feared she would poison me. Once I found an oily substance on the top of my cup of coffee.

"For God's sake," she cried to me, 'don't drink it!'"

Took Child to Vermont.

Mrs. Annie Norton, one of the defendant, was made temporary guardian of Lucy eighteen months ago by Judge George in the Suffolk Probate Court. Soon after this the father took the girl to Vermont. When he returned to Massachusetts he was ordered held in contempt of court by Judge George. It was maintained by the father that the Probate Court had no right to create a temporary guardianship over the child, because no property was involved.

Hudson next petitioned to have his aunt removed as guardian and to have himself appointed in her stead. Judge George decided his court lacked jurisdiction.

URGES PROTECTION OF CITY HOSPITAL

Fire Commissioner Cole in a report submitted to the mayor today recommended that in order to properly protect the Boston City Hospital that the high service water mains be extended through Massachusetts avenue at a cost of $25,000. Mr. Cole was asked to investigate the conditions that the hospital trustees pointed out several weeks ago. Two methods are suggested by the commissioner, the building of a large tank, on or near the hospital grounds, and extending the high pressure service.

NEW BEDFORD MEN PROTEST TO CURTIS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—To put the New Bedford, Mass., customs office on the same footing with Boston, New York and other first-class offices, a delegation of New Bedford citizens visited Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Curtis today. They urged him to recommend that the office of collector of the port of New Bedford be not abolished. Curtis said business could be expedited through a deputy collector, and that the office of collector was not necessary. The delegation will submit a protest to Secretary MacVeagh in writing.

Senator-elect Weeks and Representative Green of Massachusetts introduced the delegation, which comprised Mayor C. S. Ashley, Thomas C. Thacher and A. P. Smith.

CHRISTMAS BRIDE WHO IS SEPARATED FROM HER HUSBAND

Mrs. Nevada F. Hillier.

PARENTS ASK ANNULMENT FOR ELOPERS

Mrs. Nevada F. Hillier, the nineteen-year-old Christmas bride of George F. Hillier, the eighteen-year-old Watertown schoolboy with whom she eloped four weeks ago, is separated from her husband and her parents are planning court proceedings in the hope of having the marriage annulled. The bride is at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James H. Worden, in Newton. The mother announced this afternoon that her son-in-law had returned to the home of his father at No. 32 Belmont street, Watertown.

"I have no objection to young Hillier," said Mrs. Worden, "but he is only eighteen and unable to support a wife. The marriage was a silly affair and the foolish prank of a young couple. I am sure my daughter was unaware of what she was doing."

The father of the young man has inserted the following advertisement in a local paper:

I will not be responsible for any debts contracted by my son, George Frederick Hillier, a minor, who has voluntarily left his home.
(Signed) GEORGE F. HILLIER.

DIES AFTER NORTH END GUN BATTLE

Salvatore Bonmorte, who was shot while trying to collect a bill of $5, in the North End, died early today at the Haymarket Square Relief Hospital. Three other persons are being treated at the hospital as a result of being shot during the same quarrel which brought death to Bonmorte. The others wounded were Emanuel Russo of No. 350 North street, Michael Lembo of No. 8 Oliver street and Mrs. Dominica Lembo. Joseph Lembo, wearing a bandage covering a bullet wound, was arraigned in court today as a result of the shooting.

ATTEMPT TO BLOW PORTLAND ST. SAFE

Clerks opening up the L. J. Shortsteat and Charles O. Stickney stores at Nos. 86 and 88 Portland street today found the skylight open, a ladder leading down from it, an electric drill and sledge hammer on the floor near the Shortsteat safe and the cash drawers empty. In the safe door was a slight impression, indicating that the robbers had been scared off before they had a good chance to get into. From the Shortsteat cash drawer was taken $5 in change and several Canadian coins. From the Stickney store about $2 worth of stamps had been stolen.

BURGLAR IS ROUTED BY NURSE

Mrs. Elizabeth V. Browne, a trained nurse in the home of Benjamin Sprague, a retired shoe manufacturer living at No. 35 Ocean street, Lynn, put a masked burglar to rout early today while the "Raffles" leveled a revolver in her direction. In her clothes and presence of mind the woman completely outwitted the robber and saved the house from being looted.

Mrs. Browne surprised the burglar in the dining room, where he had tied up a sack containing silverware valued at $1,000. The man followed her to her room, believing she was going to give him her money. Instead, the nurse grasped an empty pitcher and got the "drop" on the thief.

"Hold up your hands or I'll shoot," said the nurse.

The robber obeyed, his revolver being lifted toward the ceiling as he raised his right hand.

"Now, get out—quick," said the nurse, pushing the thief with her left hand. The man turned and fled, escaping to the street.

The incident came the second within two days in which the nurse has been the heroine. Week before last she rescued her employer from a fire, carrying him to the top of the front piazza, from which he was rescued by firemen.

The nurse was awakened about 1o'clock by a noise she thought was the wind slamming a shutter against the house. Later she heard footsteps. She tiptoed down stairs to investigate. She opened the dining room door and saw the masked robber at work collecting the silverware.

"Keep still," hissed the robber, catching up his revolver from the table. "Where are the jewels and cash?"

The man told her to be still and get the money.

"But if you shout or make the slightest noise, I'll shoot you dead," he told her.

"I went to my purse," said Mrs. Browne in telling the police of her experience. "I told the burglar I had some money in the top drawer. I pulled open the drawer and took up a pitcher which was empty. But I thought I would scare him. I turned, his head was bent slightly away from me, as if he were watching the door and myself too. When I told him to throw up his hands, he swung and then started on the run. The last I saw of him was when he jumped down the stairs."

TAFT IN NEW HAVEN FOR THE MEETING OF YALE CORPORATION

NEW HAVEN, Jan. 20.—President Taft reached New Haven at 12:35 today and motored at once to President Hadley's home, where he was entertained at an informal luncheon, with the other members of the Yale Corporation.

The regular business meeting of the corporation was scheduled for later in the afternoon, and it was stated that, while the President would probably discuss his resignation from the fellows of the corporation in order to allow him to accept the Kent professorship of law, this resignation would probably not be made known for some time, perhaps not until after March 4.

BASS MAY BREAK N. H. DEADLOCK

CONCORD, N. H., Jan. 20.—The Legislature is still deadlocked in its attempt to choose a United States Senator, the fifth ballot, a purely pro forma one, today resulting in a failure to elect. Ex-Governor Robert P. Bass, the Progressive candidate for the senatorship, will be at the State House, tomorrow, when the final ballot will be taken. It is believed that he will be in a position to name the next Senator. Eighteen members voted today. The vote was: Henry F. Hollis, Democrat, 6; Robert P. Bass, Progressive, 6; Henry B. Quinby, Republican, 3; Roscoena W. Pillsbury, Republican, 1; George H. Bingham, Democrat, 1; Edward N. Pearson, Republican, 2; Carl S. Emerson, Republican, 1; Sherman E. Burroughs, Republican, 1.

INEZ MILHOLLAND WILL LEAD PARADE

WASHINGTON, January 20.—Miss Inez Milholland of New York is to lead the suffragist parade, March 3. Wearing the white cape of a herald of mediaeval times, Miss Milholland will ride down Pennsylvania avenue ahead of a woman's band, which, in turn, will lead a troop of "political cyclists."

$185,000 Is Left for Brockton Old Men by Providence Recluse

Horace William Howard, who lived alone in a $1.25 a week room at Providence, although he had a fortune of $350,000, ignored his sister, Mrs. Maria H. Goward, of South Easton, in his will, which was filed in Plymouth Probate Court today. She was the only known survivor in his family. She declares that she will contest the will.

Howard lived a mysteriously lonely life. When he became fatally ill, he sent for Mrs. Sarah J. Burns of No. 44 School street, Brockton, an intimate friend of his dead wife. She was the only person near him when he died two week ago. He left her $20,000.

The dead recluse formerly lived in Brockton and most of his bequests were made to institutions and friends there. He left $185,000 to build an old men's home in Brockton; $40,000 to the Brockton Hospital; $40,000 to Howard Seminary, a girls' school at West Bridgewater; $35,000 to the Wales Home for Aged Women; $20,000 to Georgiana Jones; $5,000 to Sarah Bird and $5,000 to Mrs. Ethel L. Burns.

Doctor Stork Adds 2 to Passenger List of Grand Trunk Flyer

LONDON, Ont., Jan. 20.—A Grand Trunk train whirling along at fifty miles an hour had no person for Old Dr. Stork today, for he hopped on twice and each time left a lusty baby behind him. As the train was rushing through Granton, Ont., Mr. Stork jumped aboard and left a baby for a wealthy woman whose name was not learned. A physician boarded the train and got off a station farther on.

Two hours later, as the train shot into a tunnel, Old Man Stork made a flying leap, got aboard, and this time visited a young Italian woman who was bound from New York to Chicago. The Old Bird had not picked his locality so carefully this time, for there was no physician aboard. A mid-wife, however, presided, and several women acted as nurses. A collection of $200 was taken up for the mother. She could not speak English, but her ticket showed she was bound for Chicago.

STRIKE-BREAKER HELD FOR DEATH AT HAVERHILL

HAVERHILL, Jan. 20.—Michael Bernstein, a young striking shoe cutter who worked under the name of Joseph Harris, died in the Hale Hospital early today from a gunshot wound fired by Charles H. Eaton, a settlement last Thursday. Captain Harry C. Hill hurried to Newburyport, where Eaton was at liberty under $3,000 bail, and re-arrested him on a charge of murder.

Escorted by a band playing dirges and followed by 1,000 strikers, many of whom marched with hand bells, Bernstein's body was today escorted to the railroad station, where it was shipped to Brooklyn.

Eaton was asleep at his home, No. 262 Water street, when the police captain found him. Mrs. Eaton, who had disappeared after the shooting, was with him. He maintains that he shot Bernstein in self defense.

Bernstein, who took the name of Harris from his mother, who lives with another son, at No. 555 Marcy avenue, Brooklyn, came to this city eighteen months ago to work as a cutter for the W. C. Lewis Company.

He was employed by the Raymond Shoe Company when the general strike of the United Shoe Workers of America was called four weeks ago. He quit and became one of the lieutenants of the strike leaders.

Eaton went to work about the time of the strike and it was said that he was a strikebreaker, first at the Durgin Shoe Company's factory and then for Wilmerill and Dobbins. He lived, while in Haverhill, at a boarding house at Pleasant and Butler streets. While working at the Durgin factory he married.

Eaton and Bernstein met last Thursday in front of Eaton's boarding house. The shooting occurred there after the two men had exchanged a few words.

HIRSCHMAN HELD ON FRAUD CHARGE

Joseph L. Hirshman, accused of using the mails to defraud was turned over to the United States authorities today by the Boston police. He was taken before Commissioner Hayes, who held him in $10,000 bail for a hearing Monday. Hirshman was arrested at the Copley-Plaza. He was accused of buying goods under the pretense of being a merchant and of disposing of them at any price he could get, with no intention of paying for them.

NO WINTER YET; RAIN AND WARM

J. W. Smith, venerable and generally veracious weather forecaster, perched in his aerie at the top of the Pemberton Building today and fully realizing that

Farmers are plowing,
Crows are cawing,
Flowers are blooming,
Fruit trees are budding,
Grass is growing and Mosquitoes are buzzing, declared that

There will be rain and warmer weather tonight, followed by a little colder tomorrow, but THERE IS NO COLD SPELL IN SIGHT.

Mr. Smith went on to discuss weather conditions in the course of which he stated that it is all tommyrot to talk about not having the kind of Winters we used to have—the weather, he avers, hasn't changed any in a hundred years on an average and it's not going to change and that's all there is to it.

Now look for squalls from the Old Weather Guard!

Went to 70 in 1876.

For the benefit of those who like statistics on the weather, it may be said that there was a January day "way back in 1876 when one mercury soared to 70. It hasn't been higher than 62 this January. We've had so far this month just 200 more degrees of heat than was coming to us on an average and 329 more degrees than we got last January altogether.

New York weather officials say the unusually mild weather conditions that have prevailed over the Atlantic coast States and in the southern and central west will cause millions of dollars damage to fruit crops. Throughout that section there has been visited by only two real snow storms this year, and where the temperature has ranged between 45 and 70 for more than two months, peach and apple trees are budding, grass is sprouting, wildflowers are blooming, mosquitoes and flies are coming out and signs of Spring are everywhere evident.

The fear is that a freezing snap would kill the fruit buds. A sleet storm today swept the Middle West. Railroad and electric line travel was hampered, wires were down and communication disrupted. The sleet reached the Chicago district about 3 a. m. today, following a chilling drizzle and later turned to heavy snow.

The storm was general as far West as the Mississippi.

THINK SHIP SANK WITH ALL ON BOARD

LONDON, Jan. 20.—The steamer oil, which sailed from Newport, R. I., Dec. 23, for Buenos Ayres, is believed to have gone down at sea during the recent storm, with a heavy loss of life. The offices of Lee, Higginson & Co., Boston bankers, today received word that the vessel was long overdue and fears were entertained for her safety.

The oil was chartered by the Amesbury Electric Light company and passed into the hands of C. D. Barney & Co., Boston bankers. With the exception of one new director, William Tufts of Boston, the old directorate remains unchanged. Some of the largest stockholders in the company are said to have cleaned up in Lee Higginson & Co.'s failure.

MRS. R. W. CUTLER, BOSTON BRIDE, GETS 95-POUND TARPON

Mrs. Roger W. Cutler of Boston, who is on her honeymoon at Miami, Fla.

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 20.—Mrs. Roger W. Cutler of Boston, who was Miss Leslie Bradley—she's a bride of a month—has brought in the first tarpon of the season. She and her husband caught a batch of beauties, Mrs. Cutler, however, making the best catch, a ninety-five pound fish, 5 feet and 11 inches long.

Cutler felt far behind his bride, his best catch being five feet long and weighing sixty-seven pounds. They returned with the season's first catch today on the yacht Yuma.

Mr. and Mrs. Cutler were married December 14 at the home of Mrs. Cutler's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sloan Bradley, in Commonwealth avenue. The bride was a member of the Vincent and Chilton clubs and of the New Riding Club.

Her husband is a son of Mr. and Mrs. George C. Cutler of Brookline. He is a graduate of Harvard, '11, and a former stroke and captain of the varsity crew.

30-FOOT SHARK HALTS STEAMSHIP

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—The Yard line steamer Havana was forced to stop during her trip north of Jupiter Light, Fla., to clear away a thirty-foot shark which had been struck by the ship's bow. The big fish was caught in the middle, his head swimming on one side and his tail lashing on the other. This was reported to the hydrographic office of the Navy Department today.

HELD IN $600 ON APPEAL

Mrs. Addie L. Moulton, the attractive petite brunette young woman who was arrested on Saturday night as a result of attempting to pass a bogus check tendered to Samuel Barron, a Back Bay drug clerk, was found guilty of forging three checks before Judge Bonsil in the Municipal Court, today, and sentenced to an indefinite term in the woman's prison at Sherborn.

While the prisoner admitted the forgeries she was plainly disappointed at the sentence. Her attorney, Lawyer Keezer, appealed the case and Mrs. Moulton pressed her handkerchief to her eyes. She was held in $600 for trial at the February term of the Superior Court.

William C. Terry, a young draftsman of South Boston, who was the complainant called to court that he had given Mrs. Moulton three blank checks on the Roxbury Trust Company, and said that he had been in the habit of allowing her to draw money on his account. His name was signed to the three checks that figured in the case. Terry explained that he only known Mrs. Moulton for several years and that he knows her people in Maine.

In Highly Nervous State.

Mrs. Moulton was in a highly nervous state in court. At times tears filled her eyes. Again she was all smiles and chatted gaily with others who were prisoners. She was dressed in brown. She wore a black hat with a widow plume. A gold locket hung from her neck and a gold cuff bracelet was pinned to her breast. She wore her engagement and wedding rings.

Terry, who is under thirty years old, was called to the witness stand. He lives at No. 780 East First street, South Boston. This is the story he related to the court:

I have been in the habit of allowing Mrs. Moulton to draw money on my account. I have allowed her to make out checks which I have signed at different times. I gave her three blank checks one day last week—I don't know just what day it was. It was Wednesday, Mrs. Moulton explained to her testimony.

The sum for which she filled out the checks was more than I had in the bank. The three checks amounted to about $80. When I gave her the three blank checks I told her that she must be sure and not use them in any unlawful way.

The reason I gave her the blank checks was because she told me that her husband had some money in the bank and that she wanted the blank checks to get it out. The writing on the three checks, in the body of the signature, is not mine. I have known her six or seven years and I know her people.

The three checks were produced by the police. The one she attempted to pass on Druggist Barren was for $25; one that was passed on a store in Boston was for $20 and one passed on the Lynn & Boston Shoe Company was for $35. In response to a request, Terry wrote his name and that of Abbie L. Morton. He also produced a regular check which Mrs. Moulton had made out and which he had signed to show his and her writing.

Mrs. Moulton told her story after her first embarrassment had worn away in a firm voice. She testified:

Signed Name Before.

I have used checks on Mr. Terry's account totalling altogether about $145. That covers a period since last October. He knew what I was going to use the bank checks for when he gave them to me. This is how it happened:

I telephoned Mr. Terry last Wednesday from a drugstore to come to my house as I wanted to see him about something. He came to the house about 8 o'clock. I asked him if he would give me some blank checks and he said he would if he had his checkbook with him. He found the checkbook and tore out three blank checks. He talked about the numbers on the checks and stated that thirty-one checks had been paid against his account and that there wasn't much left.

I had made out a check before and signed his name and it was all right.

Judge Bennett—Why did not Mr. Terry sign the checks for you?

Mrs. Moulton—I don't know.

Judge Bennett—Well, on the evidence that has been produced and your own admissions, I shall have to find you guilty.

Lawyer Keezer—We are satisfied with the decision.

Judge Bennett pronounced his sentence. It surprised Mrs. Moulton and her attorney. After a conference with his client, Lawyer Keezer appealed the case and the bail was fixed at $600.

The strange story of how Mrs. Moulton was turned from a normal girl into a woman with the weird fancy that she is rich and able to write checks for any amount, was related today by Miss Edna Kent of Norwood.

In her room at No. 36 Falmouth street, where Mrs. Moulton was arrested, the police found various kinds of ink, pens and paper with which they say she had been practicing in order that she might forge names to checks. The police say that the girl confessed that she is a forger.

Miss Kent, a girl of twenty-two, employed in Norwood, has known Mrs. Moulton fourteen months. This is Mrs. Moulton's story as Miss Kent said the accused woman has told it to her:

Victim of Delusions.

My maiden name is Abbie L. Davis and my father is engaged in the real estate business in Boston. My mother is at Hoothbay, Me. I am now twenty-one years old. I am married and my husband, Oliver E. Moulton, is now at Passaconaway, N. H.

I was married about three years ago. I have not lived with my husband for a year and a half. My husband and I had trouble, and during the trouble he struck me on the head. Since that time I have had peculiar affections of the mind.

Sometimes I have lapses of memory and cannot recall anything about my past life. Then I am transformed into another person just like a person with a double personality. I get the idea sometimes that I am a rich woman and that I have plenty of money in the bank and am able to write my check for any amount.

It is while I am under this delusion, as a result of the injury that I received to my head, that I do things that I should not do.

Then again I come to myself. I find myself in the custody of the police or being suspected in the house where I live. I am told of things that I have taken and I regret it and try to get and retain command of my better self.

Tries to Make Amends.

At such a normal time I am sorry for all that I have ever done that is wrong. I try to make amends. My mother knows of the trouble I have and has tried to get me to come home. I have gone home time and time again. But after I get there I get lonesome, the restless feeling comes over me and the big cities like Boston and New York call to me.

I can't resist the call and I immediately returns to the city and the first thing I know I am in trouble again.

You will recall that the first time I met you was at the boarding house of Mrs. Lawrence at 56 S Dalton street. I got behind in my rent there and was forced to leave, Mrs. Lawrence retaining my trunk.

Of late I have been in Pittsburg. I know a James Duff who is in the moving picture business in Pittsburg. He wants me to come there, but I will not go without some girl going with me. Edna, I want you to go with me. (This story was told by Mrs. Moulton last Thursday when she visited Miss Kent at Norwood. Miss Kent refused to go with Mrs. Moulton—in fact, believed that she was nonsanic) relative to Pittsburg.)

I have been in New York, too, of late. Well, if you won't go to Pittsburgh with me I shall not go. I shall go back to Boston. I have plenty of good clothing and some money. I will do the best I can.

Missed Pocketbook.

Miss Kent said that she took Mrs. Moulton to her room in Norwood, and that after her visitor left she missed a pocketbook belonging to her girl roommate. The pocketbook contained a few dollars. Miss Kent made up the amount to her friend.

"I do not believe that Abbie is in her right mind," said Miss Kent; "at least, at times and I have always believed what she told me as to how she was injured. I have seen very little of her for several months, as I know that she has been in the hands of the police before, and that she served a term in the woman's prison at Sherborn."

BILL FOR MATTAPAN DISTRICT COURT

The need of an additional district court in Boston, to be located in the Mattapan section, was urged upon the Legislative Committee on Judiciary today by John F. Duffy of Mattapan. The business of the district is at present done at the Dorchester court. The bill also includes the Hyde Park district, which at present transacts its legal business at the Jamaica Plain court. He said the district is growing faster than any other in Boston, and at present has a population of nearly thirty thousand, including Hyde Park.

PROTESTS COPLEY SQUARE EXPENSE

President E. E. Conway of the Boylston Street Merchants' Association protested today against the city expending money for the beautification of Copley square according to the Bourne plan. He says that not a single member of the association can be found in favor of the improvements as recommended by Architect Bill. Bourne. He believes that some memorial association should beautify the square with money raised by popular subscription.

JENNINGS GOES ON FIELD WORK SQUAD

Postoffice Inspector Charles E. Jennings, who for some years has been city inspector at Boston, has been transferred to the field work squad at his own request. He will have direction of the work in Middlesex and Franklin Counties. Byron S. Hall, recently appointed as an inspector, will assume the duties of city inspector.

PARKER ILL ON 3,000-MILE RACE

The $3,000 ocean-to-ocean race undertaken by two Shamrock men, Fred Berlick Parker and J. R. Russell, came to an abrupt halt in New York yesterday when Parker was picked up in the street and taken to St. Vincent's Hospital suffering with pneumonia.

According to the terms of the wager, the men are to go from Fall River to San Francisco in ninety days, starting without a cent, earning money for their support en route and accumulating $50 surplus by the time they return to Boston.

PROF. GRAY GETS $1,690 'L' VERDICT

Professor John V. Gray of Minneapolis, of the Special School of Political and Economic Science of the University of Minnesota, was awarded $1,690 as a verdict in his suit against the Boston Elevated in the Middlesex County Superior Court today. He sued the Elevated for $5,000 as a result of injuries received by being thrown from a car in Harvard square in June, 1911, when he was in Cambridge attending his class reunion.

REQUIRES BOND TO ATTACH PROPERTY

Arguments were presented to the legislative Committee on Judiciary today for a bill providing that when attachments are placed upon property the plaintiff shall furnish a bond in amount equal to the attachment as proof of the validity of the claim. Mrs. Corrine M. Lewis, the petitioner, and Samuel A. Whitman spoke for the bill. There was no opposition.

WELLMAN GIVES LAST IN PORT TALK SERIES

Harry R. Wellman, former assistant to the port directors, delivered his final lecture on "Port Development" before the senior class of the High School of Commerce today. Mr. Wellman outlined the development of the ports of Antwerp, Rotterdam, London and Hamburg, and pointed out the lessons Boston could draw from each port.

FIGHT GARMENT RIOTERS; MANY UNDER ARREST

NEW YORK, Jan. 20.—While more than ten thousand members of the Dressmakers' Union refused to return to work in accordance with the protocol drawn up with the manufacturers by their leaders Saturday, strikers of the United Garment Workers of America and their sympathizers suddenly initiated the worst series of riots that have yet occurred.

As a result there were thirty-two arrests and scores of windows were broken in the manufacturing district lying between Bleecker and Fourteenth streets and Fourth and Fifth avenues. The police found that today's rioting was apparently well organized. They had great difficulty in restoring peace. As soon as quiet was gained in one section hostilities would break out in another. Many policemen were hit by rocks and bricks and much damage was done to windows in many sections.

The worst riot was at Cooper square, where more than a thousand people were involved and ten arrests had to be made before the police could clear the area.

PICKET GARMENT PLANTS IN MOVE FOR LOCAL STRIKE

Women garment workers picketed two Washington steet shops today to prevent the employes from signing contracts giving the employers the right to hold $20 of their wages and some of their back pay as a forfeit against a strike. They said that if these shops persist in demanding the contracts, a general strike of 15,000 garment workers would probably be precipitated within forty-eight hours.

Miss Mabel Gillespie, secretary of the Women's Trade Union League—which consists of union women and some wealthy Back Bay philanthropists—addressed forty of the employes before 8 o'clock this morning at the headquarters of the league, No. 7 Warrenton street. She explained their legal rights, and urged the women to spread the information among all workers.

Under the law, the women are entitled to their full wages every week, and Miss Gillespie informed them that the employers had no right to ask them to sign a contract empowering the employers to hold back any money.

URGE AN IRISH-AMERICAN FOR CABINET PLACE

NEW YORK, Jan. 20.—Men prominent in Irish-American circles, it is stated today, will within a few days urge President-elect Wilson to appoint one of that birth to his cabinet.

In an editorial in the Gaelic American under the caption, "An Irishman for the Cabinet," a long list of men is given, any one of whom is declared to be a man of suitable cabinet calibre. The names include:

Senator James A. O'Gorman of New York.

Governor Edward F. Dunne of Illinois.

Lieutenant-Governor Martin H. Glynn of New York.

Former Governor Higgins of Rhode Island.

Mayor Fitzgerald of Boston.

Lieutenant-Governor Walsh of Massachusetts.

Ex-Mayor Phelan of San Francisco.

Martin J. Wade and Jeremiah Sullivan of Iowa.

Michael Doherty of Ohio.

Justices Martin J. Keogh, Victor J. Dowling, Edward E. McCall, Daniel F. Cohalan, John W. Goff and John J. Delaney of New York.

Supreme Court Justice James F. Minturn of New Jersey.

O'Neill Ryan of St. Louis.

James Byrne, John Quinn of New York and former Mayor James K. McGuire of Syracuse.

MAY CALL TROOPS TO QUELL INDIANS

CORTEZ, Col., Jan. 20.—Entrenched in the mountains eighteen miles from here and armed with repeating rifles, fifty Ute Indians today still defied a posse of more than 100 men, and sent word that they would fight to the death rather than surrender to the authorities. The trouble started when Big Rabbit, one of their tribesmen, shot Joseph Vichel, a sheep herder. John Spear, Indian agent, may ask that troops be called out.

MARRIAGE PUZZLE FOR SOMERVILLE

Miss Eva May Cole, a former Somerville young woman, who lives in Washington, and William B. Richards, a Bar Harbor policeman, started a romance mystery in Somerville today by going to the city clerk's office in that city and asking for a marriage license. Nobody found out where and when they intended to wed or why they chose Somerville as the place. Miss Cole is but twenty. Richards said he was thirty-nine, and that this was to be his second marriage, having been divorced on the first occasion.

WILSON AWAITS ACTION OF HOUSE ON TARIFF BILL

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—President-elect Wilson has notified Chairman Underwood of the Ways and Means Committee that he will defer issuing the call for the extra session of Congress until after the tariff bill is ready for action in the House.

This is quite satisfactory to the Democrats in Congress, who will have their hands full immediately after March 4 calling on the new President for patronage.

INAUGURAL BALL COMMITTEE WILL ABANDON ITS PLANS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—President-elect Wilson was sent the following telegram by William Corcoran Eustis, chairman of the inaugural committee, relative to the inaugural ball:

Your letter with reference to the omission of the inaugural ball has not reached me, but we hasten to assure you of our desire to comply with your wishes in every way.

The telegram was dated Friday; the Governor's letter requesting that the ball be abandoned was mailed Friday morning.

'L' BREAKERS GO TO BANGOR; BIG GUARD POSTED

BANGOR, Jan. 20.—In spite of the fact that deputy sheriffs under the command of Sheriff Emerson of Penobscot county are guarding all trains and yards of the Bangor & Aroostook Railroad, where 130 engineers and firemen are on strike, a number of strikebreakers declined to go to work this morning.

This, the officials of the road claim, is due to coercion on the part of the strikers, who, they say, have intimidated the new men. This charge is denied by the strikers, who declare the differences will be peaceably adjusted, if at all.

Several men who served as "breakers" in the recent Boston Elevated strike have come to work in a similar capacity on the Bangor & Aroostook.

Freight trains abandoned by the strikers at remote points are being brought to the junctions under guard of Pinkerton detectives and President Todd asserted today that he would have the freight as well as the passenger service on a normal basis within a few days. The authorities have seized much liquor and threatened prosecution by any further infraction of the law.

It is feared that in the event of a shutdown of the textile and factories through the suspension of the freight service, the situation will become serious.

Both sides stoutly maintain they are certain of victory.

REFERENDUM ON REVERE BILL IS ASKED BY MANY

Three hundred citizens of Revere, including a number of women, appeared before the legislative Committee on Metropolitan Affairs at the State House today at a hearing on a bill providing for the annexation of that town to Boston and on another to make that town a city by itself.

The concensus of sentiment was that the two questions should be submitted to the voters of Revere at the November election or the March town meeting.

The chief argument advanced against annexation to Boston was that it would make Revere a license community. Revere has been "dry" for twentyone years.

John C. Pirie, the petitioner for the annexation bill; Joseph L. Porcella, Clarence Clisbee, President John B. Sewall of the Beachmont Annexation League, Representative Giblin, John B. Fitzgerald, Henry Hichborn, J. E. Sheehan and Francis Carbear all spoke for annexation.

Ex-Senator Alfred S. Hall of Revere said he was in favor of a city charter for the town.

SUBSCRIPTIONS WILL WIN THE $40,000 RACE

BY THE CONTEST EDITOR.

Be prompt, now, with your subscriptions.

The Contest Editor in the AMERICAN'S $40,000 contest will try to give candidates a weekly vote, and this means that no contestant's position in the list is secure for longer than from Sunday to Saturday of each week.

It looks like a hot finish for the $40,000 prizes and for the next five weeks it will be a subscription battle from week to week until the end.

Spurred on by the $10,000 cash prize, the five $1,000 prizes and the host of other big awards, candidates are working with feverish activity to get subscriptions and to win the splendid prizes.

The end is near at hand. Five weeks from next Friday will tell the story. The polls will close tonight at 5.30 o'clock for the next vote list of candidates' standings which will be printed in next Sunday's AMERICAN, Jan. 26.

Candidates cannot do any more work after 5.30 tonight as far as this list is concerned. But they can and must do all the subscription work they are able to do before the week ends, in order to secure a good position in the following Sunday's vote list.

In five weeks candidates can do much. Those who are now in the race have the leadership, with the aid of a few dozen subscriptions, practically improve their standing and obtain a much more valuable prize. The leaders will, of course, fight it out to the death until the finish.

Victory will undoubtedly come to those who devote their time to subscriptiongetting. It is a fair field and no favor. If you work you will win. And, if you don't work and have not worked in this contest, you certainly will not win.

Candidates must remember that there are 1,000 prizes besides the $10,000 capital prize. The total prize list represents an aggregate value of $40,000. So, if you can't get the capital prize, there are $30,000 worth of other prizes to be won.

Look at it from that standpoint, and go out and show what material you are made of.

Virginia Doctor Curing Drunkard

Hadn't Much Hope at First, But Patient Responds—Prescribed Renova

When a well known doctor (name given on application) in Virginia admits that Renova has accomplished more than he expected it in, and that his patient shows signs of decided improvement because it is being given secretly. Read what the doctor writes: "The remedy must be given in this form without his knowledge. He is taking it one way or the other . . . If he knew it was going he would resent it . . . It looks now like there was some virtue in your remedy, although it is given under adverse conditions."

Why hesitate? If your drinking friend can't or won't quit, just go to Ilker-Jaynes' and get a package of Renova and if after using it faithfully you can honestly say it hasn't helped him at all, get your money back.

If you'd like to try it—free—before you buy a whole package, write in confidence to the Renova Co., 280 Broadway, New York, for a sample and proofs of what Renova does to victims of intemperance.

Headache?—It's Your Liver

Too Many People Take Headache Powders When a Liver Tonic is Needed.

Try Olive Tablets—the Substitute for Calomel.

Anyone who takes Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets the moment he suspects his liver or bowels will never have headache.

There is no necessity, when you take Olive Tablets, of following them up with nasty, sickening, griping salts or castor oil, as you should after taking calomel.

Olive Tablets do not contain calomel or any other metallic drugs; they are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil, sugar-coated, easy to take, and never gripe or cause weakness.

Thousands of people take one every night at bedtime just to prevent disorder of the liver, constipation, bad breath, pimples, headache, etc.

Dr. Edwards, calomel's old enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets after seventeen years of practice among patients afflicted with liver and bowel troubles.

Try them for a week. Take one on retiring nightly.

DR. ELIOT DID NOT WANT TO BE 'IMMORTAL'

Charles W. Eliot, president emeritus of Harvard University, did not want to be an "immortal."

That is why his name does not appear in the list of "fifty immortals" approved by the Senate as original members of the American Academy of Arts and Letters.

Professor James Ford Rhodes today explained how President Eliot's name was omitted from the list. He said:

When the first society was formed as the National Institute of Arts and Letters, President Eliot was elected, but he declined to be a member.

Then when the American Academy of Arts and Letters was formed he was, after a time, elected a member of that, but again declined.

President Eliot told me that he was in so many societies already that he did not wish to add to the number.

He had been elected a member of the original society of thirty members, but as I said before he declined to continue a member and naturally it was not for us to urge him. I conferred with him on many occasions, not to induce him, but to talk it over, and he always advanced the same reason, that he did not wish to add to the list of societies of which he was a member. We all regretted it very much and do today.

In the roll of "fifty immortals" approved by the Senate appear the names of President-elect Woodrow Wilson, Presidents Hadley of Yale, Lowell of Harvard and Nicholas Murray Butler of Columbia.

The "immortals" appearing in the bill are:

William Dean Howells	William M. Chase
Henry James	Thomas Hastings
Henry Adams	Ivanhoe Wilgus Maine
Thomas R. Lounsbury	Brander Matthews
Theodore Roosevelt	Thomas Nelson Page
John S. Sargent	Edith Wharton
James Bowdoin Woodward	Edward Mead Wood-
Horace Howard Furness	ruff
Alfred Thayer Mahan	Kenyon Cox
Daniel Chester French	George Whitefield Chad-
John Bigelow	wick
James Ford Rhodes	Abbott T. Thayer

Wm. Milligan Sloane	Charles Follen Adams
R. Underwood Johnson	Charles Dudley Warner
George W. Cable	Hon. De Forest Brush
Andrew D. White	Wm. Rutherford Mead
Henry van Dyke	Wm. M. Alexander
William C. Brownell	Silas Perry
Basil L. Gildersleeve	Francis D. Millet
Woodrow Wilson	Albert Lawrence Lor-
Arthur T. Hadley	mer
Abbott Lawrence Lowell	James Waltoned Pyne

INGERSOLL TALKS THROUGH DR. ELIOT SAYS PROF. TOWNSEND

"More than half of the people of Boston would certainly seek voluntary deaths tomorrow, if there were no hell," declared Professor L. T. Townsend in his final address on "Unbelief in Hell" to Tremont Temple today in answer to Dr. Charles W. Eliot. "These remarks of Dr. Eliot about it are just simply the return of Colonel Ingersoll. He is dead, but he got speeches through Dr. Eliot, who is his prophet today," said Professor Townsend.

PROF. PEABODY TO RETIRE TOMORROW

A large number of graduates and undergraduates will turn out tomorrow to hear Professor Francis G. Peabody's last lecture as a regular Harvard professor. The veteran professor of sociology retires this year and many of his old students are coming around to hear him speak. There is some talk of presenting him with a loving-cup, but the final plans on that subject have not yet been disclosed. A greater ovation is being planned than that which greeted Professor Cesar de Sumichrast a year ago when he left Harvard to go to England.

ISSUE APPEAL TO CHILDREN TO SAVE THE BIRDS

NEW YORK, Jan. 20.—John Burroughs and Ernest Thompson Seton, the world's most widely known naturalists, today issued the following joint appeal to the school children of America:

An urgent appeal we make to you in behalf of our native birds, many species of which are in danger of extermination. To you is now given the opportunity to render substantial help toward their preservation. A measure is now before Congress, the purpose of which is to place all migratory birds under the protection of the Federal government. Such a law is greatly needed. If it is not passed our birds will continue to decrease to the great and everlasting disadvantage and shame of the American people.

The destruction of bird life is costing American farmers millions of dollars annually through the constantly increasing devastations of harmful insects upon which the birds feed. But a greater loss their slaughter is bringing to all who love God's great out-of-doors.

The measure now before Congress is non-partisan and non-political. It should have the hearty endorsement of all patriotic and nature-loving Americans. But it is in danger of being lost in the great mass of less important legislation now pending in Congress.

We, therefore, appeal to the school children of America to help in this vitally important matter. We ask you to get your parents, teachers and friends to write or telegraph to the Congressman of your district and the two Senators of your State now in Washington, urging immediate action upon the pending bird protection bill —that they may understand how deep is the interest in it and how great is the need for it.

If you will today get two or three such messages written and sent (they need not be long messages—a single signed request will do), you will have the satisfaction of knowing that you have rendered substantial help in this great and good cause.

Why not make this your task for today—and tomorrow? Your teacher or your newspaper will give you the names of your Senators and Congressman. The messages should be sent at once.

And this appeal is big enough and important enough to extend to all the grown-up children who are in the greater school of life—to all men and women who would help conserve one of the country's most valuable and interesting resources. To such we appeal for immediate cooperation. A message to Washington—sent today—may save a bird—will help to save our birds from extermination. Surely, you'll send it!

ERNEST THOMPSON SETON.

LYNN TEA MERCHANT IS HIT BY TRAIN

Benjamin Bernstein, a Lynn tea and coffee dealer, living at No. 52 Flint street, in that city, was struck by a Boston & Maine train today at the Blossom street crossing in Lynn and seriously injured. He had stepped out of the way of one train only to be struck by the train in front of a train on the other track. The injured man is the uncle of Israel Kramer, a fifteen-year-old Lynn boy who has been missing several months. The uncle had furnished funds with which to search for the boy.

ARMY AND NAVY MEN AT GUANTANAMO BAY

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—To defend plans for the land defences at Guantanamo Bay, Cuba, five army and navy officers left Wash ington today on the Mayflower, the President's yacht, which had been placed at their disposal. The party included Major-General W. W. Wotherspoon and generals Crozier and Weaver, representing the army, and Rear Admiral Hugo Osterhaus and Captain Shoemaker, representing the navy.

DREXELS DISAGREE, SAYS FATHER-IN-LAW

NEW YORK, Jan. 20.—That there are no indications of a reconciliation between Anthony J. Drexel and his wife was the assurance given out today by Mr. Drexel, father-in-law of Marjorie Gould Drexel, who reached New York in company with Lord Maidstone. Since an heir arrived, reports have been frequent that Mr. and Mrs. Drexel would forget their differences.

NEWPORT SOCIETY TO RUN A MARKET

NEWPORT, Jan. 20.—Reports are heard that a market is to be operated in the heart of Newport, financed by a number of the members of the cottage colony who live in Newport throughout the year, where provisions of every kind will be sold. Some of these people complain of the prices charged for their meats and groceries especially.

WILLIAM ROCKEFELLER NOW ABLE TO TALK TO PALM BEACH VISITORS

FIRST PICTURE OF ROCKEFELLER IN SOUTH

This is the first photograph taken of William Rockefeller since he left New York. It was snapped at Palm Beach while the financier was on a morning excursion to the palm groves in a roller chair.

PALM BEACH, Fla., Jan. 20.—William Rockefeller's friends will be delighted to learn that he can talk. Mr. Rockefeller was seems to be in much better health, spoke freely to the photographer who took pictures of him for the AMERICAN.

The old man, his wife and their son, William G., are at the Poinciana here. Mr. Rockefeller passes his mornings in a rolled chair, and is wheeled along the palm trails of the Poinciana. Policy he is in no such danger as when he was needed as a witness by the Pujo Congressional Committee investigating the Money Trust. Then Dr. Lamont swore that any effort or excitement might produce a condition that would not only imperil Mr. Rockefeller's life, but might very reasonably be expected to cause his sudden death.

The fact that Mr. Rockefeller was photographed while seated in a roller chair does not mean necessarily that he is very weak. So far from being emaciated, he is quite stout. When he goes on his morning excursions to the Palm groves Mrs. Rockefeller and his son accompany him and they are in roller chairs wheeled by negroes in livery.

BARBER HELD IN $500 FOR RAZOR ATTACK

Louis Mangino, forty, of No. 36 Prince street, Charlestown, explained today in court that when Michael Rorano of No. 3 Putnam street, a Saturday night customer of his barber shop at No. 25 Henley street, Charlestown, attempted to return to his shop after an argument 20 feet Rorano at the door, with a razor in hand, and "accidentally" cut the intruder. Mangino was held in $500 bail today for a hearing January 28.

Mr. Loring was born at Duxbury, on August 28, 1835. The funeral will be tomorrow at 2 p. m.

Man Who Advertised for Wife in Brockton Was Only a "Jollier"

Arthur N. Frawley, who gave his address as No. 14 St. James street, Boston, and announced in a letter to the Mayor of Brockton that he was a candidate for matrimony, was only "kidding" the Brockton girls, and two score of them will flush with indignation when they read this today.

Frawley gave himself away to Miss Edith Rollins, an actress, who lives in Jacot street, Brockton. He met Miss Rollins at Haverhill last week. (No, Miss Rollins wasn't seeking a husband; it was an accidental meeting.) He told Miss Rollins, quite confidentially, that he was a United States Secret Service man who travelled extensively, and that in his spare time he amused himself writing for a wife in the cities where he happened to be located. "It's the only way I had to meet the good-looking girls," he said, according to Miss Rollins. "I gave some of the letters I had to my associate friends."

In his letter to the Mayor of Brockton Frawley said that he had $30 a week and $2,500 in bank, and that he would give $500 to charity if he were provided with a 150-pound, agreeable and good-looking young wife. Whereat the girls "got busy."

DEFENDS HUB WOMEN'S DRESS AS "SENSIBLE"

The Rev. Frederick E. Taylor, pastor of the First Baptist Church, Indianapolis, and in Boston, studying the moral conditions of this city as compared with others of the United States. He does not agree with the recent utterances of Dr. Winfield S. Hall of Chicago, who said of the Y. M. C. A. Springfield that Boston women were improper dresses and that girls were aping the daring styles of Paris. Said Dr. Taylor:

This is not true. I've looked around carefully in this city, and Boston is one of the most moral American cities. When I saw the rebuke of Dr. Hall against Boston women, I thought that I would get evidence to verify it, but I have been here in this city walking your streets for a week or more, and I have seen nothing to justify his accusations.

Boston for Moral Reform.

What I like about Boston is the fact the people get interested in moral movements. You have more people here who prick up their ears at the word "moral reform" than are found in New York, for instance.

New York is too busy making money and spending it, but Boston is true to its old heritages. It wants to know whether anything is so.

I have some across nothing in Boston to confirm the remarks of Dr. Hall about women's dress.

So far as I can take in the situation the Boston women are most conservative in every degree.

Occasionally you may see a young miss, who has not minded the sensible advice of her mother about dress.

But Boston is still holding its own on conservative dress. New York is the city where much of the criticism of Dr. Hall would fit.

I like Boston because it has not followed Sunday baseball in Indianapolis, to see crowds going to Sunday baseball is enough to make you cry out with indignation.

Boston has not yet got Sunday baseball, and let it stand against it.

Let it stand against it. I like baseball as well as any man, but I am free to say I do not believe in Sunday baseball, and I know of a great many men who are on the nines that think as I do.

"Boston Still Sensible."

So Boston still remains sensible about baseball on Sundays, and its people are, in my estimation, among the strongest champions of moral reform in this country.

When I go back to Indianapolis I am going to say to my baseball fans, "Boston can do without Sunday baseball, and why cannot we do without it in this city?"

You talk about the foreign elements corrupting Sundays. Why, the Puritans who are dead in Boston still holds her own, and she is setting the pace for many advanced movements in social reform through the country.

MISS CROSBY TO WED WEDNESDAY

Among the important social events of the week in Catholic circles is the wedding of Miss Ab gail W. Crosby, daughter o Mr and Mrs. Thomas Crosby of Moreland street, Roxbury, to William P. Hempstead, Jr., of New York, which will be celebrated with a high nuptial mass at 9 a. m. Wednesday in St. Joseph's Church. A reception will be held in the evening at the home of the bride's mother will be attended by 200 guests. The bride's sister, Mrs. Joseph Hendig, will be matron of honor and her brother, John W. Crosby, best man. The couple will make their home in Brookline.

Mrs. Brokaw Comes for a Divorce; Says Spies Pursued Her

NEW YORK, Jan. 20.—Mrs. Mary Blair Brokaw, accompanied by her father, James A. Blair, arrived on the Mauretania to remain in this country until the suit for divorce which she has brought against her husband, W. Gould Brokaw, is ended.

"If I cannot succeed in getting my divorce very shortly," said Mrs. Brokaw, "I think I shall die. I cannot stand the strain and the mdoiety much longer. The charges brought in the counter suit are hideously false, and there will be no trouble in disproving them.

"Just think of it. Even on a big ocean liner a detective is set to watch me. If I rile in a motor a detective spy follows in another car behind. They never come near me. I never know their names.

"When I have won my suit, I shall leave America forever. I could never live again where I have been the subject of so much public discussion."

SUNDAY SCHOOL TEACHER IS FOR "FRESNO" DAN

Testimony unfavorable to "Dakota Dan" and very favorable to "Fresno Dan" was given at East Cambridge today in the Russell suit case by ex-Mayor Sidney H. Bartlett of Melrose.

Mr. Butterick, for fifty years has been a Sunday School teacher in the Universalist Church and for many years superintendent of the Sunday School. He claimed to know Daniel Blake Russell as a boy very well and related that he never wanted to go to Sunday school and he had to hold the boy there by force.

He stated that when he heard that Daniel Blake Russell had returned, in 1909, he went to Young's Hotel to see him. He did not recognize him. He asked him many questions, to most of which evasive answers were returned, he said. He was compelled to say, "I am very sorry, but I don't know you," and then he left.

Fresno Dan, he said, he recognized at once. Mr. McCready, now director of Bay Ridge, L. I., Murphy, Jr., and J. W. O'Mealey, assistants; L. W. Burr, chief of mids, assisted by 500 aids. There will be the marching division, chief, Timothy McCarthy, J. J. Nolan, J. J. Gilfalone, J. J. Cassidy, Edward L. Gear, Robert Morton, Jesse Swarts, Dr. Luther Urrows, Cornelius Keating and Stanton Doucette.

TRUNK VICTIM WENT SHOPPING LAST TUESDAY

AMESBURY, Jan. 20.—It became known today that Mrs. Charles Victorine, whose body was found in a trunk by her husband and the mystery of whose death is being investigated by State Police Inspector Wells, was in Haverhill on a shopping trip Tuesday afternoon, the day on which she disappeared. Inspector Wells learned that she returned on the 4:50 p. m. electric car from Haverhill. It was found dead by her husband in the trunk at the foot of her bed, on Wednesday night.

A corset and other articles she bought in Haverhill will be introduced as evidence at the inquest to be held in two weeks. The trunk, containing a blanket and under wear, has been taken from the Victorine home to the police station. The State detective has also discovered that the bus band quit work at the Briggs Carriage Company, where he is employed, at 5 o'clock in the afternoon. He went to work the next morning at 6:51 o'clock and quit at 5:07 that night. The exact time was shown by the "punch" clock at the carriage factory.

Inspector Wells said Inspector Wells that Victorine had asked them if they had seen his wife before 5:30 Wednesday afternoon.

COLEMAN LOOKS OVER BANK BOOKS

George W. Coleman, the Cambridge banking detective, who was sought in Boston to testify at a hearing connected with the wrecking of the City Bank of Cambridge, today worked over the books of the bank at the John Hancock building, preparatory to going on the stand.

IVERNIA DOCKS LATE AFTER BIG STORM BATTLE

The Cunard liner Ivernia, from Liverpool, reached her dock at 8:30 today, 100 hours overdue, after the most harrowing experience with wind and sea that her captain, H. M. Benison, has undergone in his service of twenty-seven years.

Terrific storms were encountered on January 10, 11, 14 and 15 and on the 11th the vessel's log showed only 85 miles. The normal day's run for the Ivernia is 350. On that day giant waves swept the hurricane deck, washing the chocks from under the lifeboats and endangering the lives of members of the crew who sought to keep them from washing overboard. Sidney Jones, an attendant in the second cabin; George Goldsbrough, a settler, and Alfred Zaker, a passenger, were injured.

Among the passengers was Professor George P. Baker, professor of dramatic literature at Harvard, who has been studying stage management and machinery in Germany.

The Ivernia is due to sail on the return trip at 8 tomorrow morning, but Cunard officials say she will probably get away at 10 o'clock Thursday night. She has 3,000 tons of cargo on board and about 6,000 tons to take into her holds.

2,000 BOSTON ELKS HOSTS TONIGHT AT BIG ANNUAL BALL

Two thousand members of the Boston lodge of Elks will tonight entertain a host of friends at the annual Elks' ball in Mechanics building. Elks from all over New England will attend.

One of the surprising features is promised to be an "eleven o'clock stunt."

The officers of the ball will be Major P. F. O'Keefe, marshal; M. F. Birmingham and J. F. Harley and H. L. Goodwin, assistants; J. McCready, floor director; Jacob Rauhauer, C. J. Murphy, Jr., and J. W. O'Mealey, assistants; L. W. Burr, chief of mids, assisted by 500 aids. There will be the marching division, chief, Timothy McCarthy, J. J. Nolan, J. J. Gilfalone, J. J. Cassidy, Edward L. Gear, Robert Morton, Jesse Swarts, Dr. Luther Urrows, Cornelius Keating and Stanton Doucette.

TONIGHT! TAKE A "CASCARET" SURE

No Sick Headache, Bilious Stomach, or Constipated Bowels by Morning.

Turn the rascals out—the headache, the biliousness, the indigestion, the sick, sour stomach and foul gases—then throw out constipation and live right with Cascarets.

Millions of men and women take a Cascaret now and then and never know the misery caused by a lazy liver clogged-up bowels or an upset stomach.

Don't put in another day of distress. Let Cascarets cleanse and regulate your stomach; remove the sour, undigested and fermenting food and that misery-making gas; take the excess bile from your liver and carry it out of the system all the constipated waste matter and poison in the intestines and bowels. Then you will feel great.

A Cascaret tonight will surely straighten you out by morning. The work while you sleep. A 10-cent box from any drug store means a clear head, sweet stomach and clean healthy liver and bowel action for months. Children love to take Cascarets because they taste good—never gripe or sicken.

Nature makes the luscious plum—
Man makes the dry prune

Who would not prefer a luscious plum to a dry prune? It's flavor a man wants. The man who wants the sweetest, most fragrant smoke, does not buy crinkled or granulated tobacco which dries out in tin cans or paper packages. He prefers plug tobacco because he wants the true tobacco flavor.

If you keep the moisture in tobacco, you keep the flavor. In Master Workman Plug tobacco all the moisture and flavor is retained because every bit of natural goodness is pressed into the leaves and kept there by a natural leaf wrapper.

Isn't it natural that a dried-out, chopped-up tobacco should burn fast—smoke hot and bite your tongue?

CASSIDY REPLIES TO ANONYMOUS DEFENDERS OF MANHATTAN MARKET

The AMERICAN received last week the following anonymous letter discussing Harry F. Cassidy's exposure of the business methods of the Manhattan Market in Cambridge.

It is not usual to take notice of letters written by persons who for any reason do not sign their names. However, in this case Mr. Cassidy was asked to discuss the letter and its statements in one of his daily articles.

The numbers in the letter were inserted for convenience and Mr. Cassidy refers to the statements in the letter by number, in his article today:

CASSIDY DISCUSSES MARKET LETTER.

The letter follows:

Cambridge, Jan. 16, 1913.

Editor of Boston AMERICAN:

I do not believe that the AMERICAN would wilfully, and with malice aforethought, do anything to injure anyone, although it looks a little as if it had that intention in attacking the Manhattan Market Company—the altogether BEST market that Cambridge ever had. (I).

The dried fruits in question are the same as are sold at other grocery stores. As for their being dyed with sulphur (II), there is nothing injurious in that (III), and I can see no advantage to be gained by the PUBLIC (IV) in being told that they were prepared with "sulphur dioxide," for the majority would not be any wiser then (V.)

As for rice, we all know that the grains are polished (VI), using some chemical in the process, and even if it were in a measure deleterious, as housekeepers always wash rice in several waters before cooking, I don't see how the polishing could injure anyone.

The "so-called" Sultana raisins you say were not sultanas. What kind of raisins were they? (VII). Were they not made from the small Sultana grapes? If the real Sultanas are drier than those in question, and they were an imitation, why should they be bleached to make them lighter?

The article published in your paper is certainly calculated to bring disrepute on the market, and destroy the confidence of its patrons, in the honorable men who run it. (VIII).

From one who has dealt for many years, receiving general satisfaction, at the Manhattan Market!

By HARRY F. CASSIDY.

The letter printed above has been brought to my attention. Let us look up the essential statements and questions in that letter in order, and answer them in detail.

(I) In the introduction to my article of Sunday, January 12, appeared these words: "It (the article) is an indictment, not of this store, but of the condition disclosed." The fourth paragraph of my article read: "I have no quarrel with the Manhattan Market. I wish to state that their devices for caring for meat, their service, and the general arrangement of the store are admirable."

These two quotations make it quite clear that the market was not attacked but the sale of foods that were mere frauds upon the customer.

(2) The fruits were cured with a sulphur bleach. The process usually consists in subjecting them to the action of sulphur fumes, I believe.

(3) The anonymous writer says he or she can see "nothing injurious in that." But experts everywhere agree that sulphur dioxide, except in the minutest quantities, IS INJURIOUS. And while the quantity of the drug in a dish of the fruit might not hurt one, if the same percentage prevailed in all the foods eaten at a single meal, the effect would be felt.

Let the People Know.

(4) The public, says the writer, will gain no advantage by knowing that the foods they buy are drugged. I do not agree. I believe every customer has a right to know the quality and character of every purchase made at a store. And when the Manhattan Market sold these foods without warning their patomers of their character, THEY WERE PURSUING A FRAUD UPON THOSE CUSTOMERS.

(5) The words "sulphur dioxide" may not mean much to the average customer. Sulphur dioxide is regularly used to bleach straw hats. That is its most familiar function. I believe stores should be required to tell their customers that sulphur dioxide is used in foods—where it is used—and that the customer should be told in such a way that he WOULD UNDERSTAND THE DRUGS AND MEDICATIONS HE WAS EATING AS FOOD.

(6) It is perhaps true that "we all know the grains of rice are polished." But I'll warrant very few people know that in countries where rice forms a large part of the people's diet, the polishing induces the dreaded "beriberi" disease. United States medical reports have established the fact that this disease is the result of the rice being polished, and that the very polishings from the rice, if administered to a patient sick with the disease, usually effect a cure.

The reason is that rice normally contains a mineral substance, which forms its chief food value. The customary polishing takes off a large part of this mineral food. Some methods reduce the rice's mineral qualities from about 4½ per cent. to less than a half of 1 per cent. If people in this country ate rice as universally as in the Philippines, for instance, the famine polished rice would, I believe, result in the coming of the "beriberi" disease here. Therefore, I think there can be no doubt that polishing rice does actually reduce its food value and even render it dangerous to health.

Bleached Raisins.

(7) The anonymous correspondent asks what kind of raisins the so-called Sultana raisins actually were. I refer the correspondent to the Market, which, since the publication of my article, marks the bin in which these raisins are displayed: "Nat. bleached raisins, 15c per lb." The raisins are really California, bleached raisins. They are treated with sulphur dioxide, the bat bleach.

The bleached raisins are of a more even color, are more attractive to the eye than the real Sultanas and are cheaper. That answers the second question of the anonymous writer.

(8). I have no desire to destroy the confidence of the public in the HONORABLE MEN who conduct the Manhattan Market. But I do believe the public has a right to know if those men are selling foods dyed and drugged, disguised by polish, or which are mere imitations of the real thing, WITHOUT TELLING THEIR CUSTOMERS THE FACTS. I believe the customer has a RIGHT TO KNOW WHAT HE IS BUYING, and my fight in Boston will be directed to securing for him that right.

FOOD TARIFF SCHEDULES ARE UNDER DEBATE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—Whether to maintain a tariff on food products or put them on the free list was the question before the House Ways and Means Committee today, when it took up the agricultural schedule, which includes all kinds of fruit and farm products.

L. W. Durkee, of New York, urged the committee to retain the present rates on ground spices, although he admitted the duty was prohibitive.

"You must remember, Mr. Durkee," said Chairman Underwood, "that we cannot write a prohibitive tariff. We want a tariff that will bring in revenue."

Durkee declared if the duty were removed foreign manufacturers would send in "doped" spices and the pure food law would be unable to reach them. He thought that the raw spices should come in duty free. H. A. McCarmick, of Baltimore, urged the committee to maintain a 2c differential in duties on ground and unground spices so as to protect the labor in the industry here.

I. Locke Breed, of New Orleans and W. B. Dunlap, of Beaumont, Texas, representing the Southern Rice Association, urged the retention of the present duties on rice.

WOMAN NURSE IS NEEDED FOR LEPER COLONY

WANTED—A woman to volunteer as nurse, helper and friend to the lepers of Penikese Island.

This great need was voiced by Dr. Charles J. White in a lecture before the Harvard Medical School. The speaker said that attempts had been made to get a woman to go to the dreaded island as a nurse. So far they have failed to get one.

He pointed out in explanation that any one who goes there to work with the afflicted residents commits social suicide. Dr. Parker, the resident physician, and Mrs. Parker have done that.

"Dr. Parker," said Dr. White, "has committed social suicide. He is a man of remarkable courage, a man whose services to this community cannot be overestimated, and Mrs. Parker is of great service to her husband in the fine work he is doing.

"On the first day of next month Dr. Honey, who has been studying at this school to perfect himself on the subject of leprosy, will go to the leper settlement as an assistant to Dr. Parker. He will have special charge of the lepers.

Mrs. Leeds Predicts Women of England Will Win Ballot

LONDON, Jan. 19.—An American correspondent asked Mrs. William B. Leeds at the Ritz Hotel what she thought of her British sisters' chances for success in obtaining votes for women. Mrs. Leeds replied:

"There can be no doubt that suffrage for woman is a good thing, inasmuch as it will undoubtedly raise her to a higher plane in the world of man, thereby causing him to treat her with greater respect, and, in my opinion as an observer, it will result in giving men cleaner politics and better forms of government.

"I have little doubt that the time is not far off when woman will be given the power to voice her opinion in politics—at all events, English politics—and be able to back up that opinion with her vote at the polls. It must come in the ordinary progress of things.

LIQUOR BILL VOTE OFF TILL FEB. 10

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—A vote on the Kenyon-Shepard liquor bill will not be taken by the Senate until February 10. It had been agreed on January 12 to vote on the measure today. The bill prohibits the interstate shipment of liquor into dry territories.

HURLEY THINKS HE IS ELIGIBLE FOR A PENSION

"Bill Hat" Hurley, Mayor of Salem, declared today that he believed he would be eligible for retirement on an annual pension of $1,250 after he has served two years of his Mayoralty term. He said it was too early to tell whether or not he would apply for the pension.

Mayor Hurley found the idea in Chapter 447 of the Acts of 1912. "This law," he said, "provides that any Civil War veteran in the service of any city, if incapacitated for duty, may be retired by the City Council at one-half the average compensation paid him in the two years preceding his retirement, provided that no veteran may be retired unless he has been in the service not less than ten years preceding the time of his retirement.

"You will notice that the act says 'service' not laborer or employe. I served six years in the Water Board, four years as Mayor and am now on a term of three years more, a total of thirteen years. If that does not qualify a man, what does?

"Will you apply for a pension?"

"Well, three years is a long time ahead. But I don't think I'm incapacitated yet; do you?"

EMIL PAUR HAS QUIT GERMAN ROYAL OPERA

BERLIN, Jan. 20.—Emil Paur, for five years leader of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, and later leader of orchestras in New York and Pittsburg, today resigned his position as conductor of the Royal Opera at Berlin, owing, according to some press reports, to differences of opinion with Emperor William. Emil Paur took the place of Dr. Karl Muck, now of Boston, just a year ago.

GIRL WORKER TELLS OWN STORY OF LABOR IN BOSTON SWEAT SHOP

By ANGELA MORGAN.

Here is the story of Jeska Gordon, a finisher of ladies' garments. She is one of the 12,000 Boston women garment workers, crying out against unjust conditions, less-than-living wages and surroundings that are unsanitary beyond description.

Jeska is a Russian Jewess, twenty years old, one of a family of nine children. Alone and unfriended, she came to this country a year and a half ago because she longed to help her family out of poverty. They were practically starving in Russia, and this brave girl made up her mind to risk the perils and uncertainties of a strange country and earn money to send back to them.

Girl Pitcous Appeal.

Today she appeared at the headquarters of the Cloak and Skirtmakers' Union at No. 31 North Russell street, sobbing bitterly, asking for a job that would give her a living wage.

"I have a letter from my father," she wept, "He tells me they are all starving for a piece of bread, my mother is ill on her back, near death. And I can't do a thing to help! Just think, I can't help them, there's nothing I can do!"

She wrung her hands, as the helplessness of her position swept over her.

Then she explained the reason for her despair—how she had found conditions and wages so wretched in the shops where she worked that she had been unable to earn a living for herself, much less to help the brothers and sisters and mother back in Russia, for whose sake she had come to the country.

There are people in Boston who read of cases like Jeska's and wonder, with a yawn, if they can be true.

THEY ARE TRUE. THEY ARE OFTEN WORSE THAN DEPICTED.

Jeska herself told the story to me with her own lips, and her tears were proof enough of suffering.

Case One of Thousands.

You who have homes and comforts and luxuries, however few; you who read her story from easy armchairs, with pleasant lamp shades casting a glow over the hard facts of life, remember when you read of this girl's struggle, that it is not only true, it is one of thousands to be found right here in Boston in the West End.

Jeska is a tall, straight, dark-haired girl with courageous brown eyes, a modest bearing and hands that show she is not afraid to work. Today when I saw her, she was trimly though poorly dressed in a dark blue skirt and sweater. I could not help wondering how she managed to look so neat when the struggle for a bare living is so intense.

"Tell me," I asked, "when and how do you do it?"

"Oh," and she smiled, as if that were the easiest part, "I stay up nights and sew and I wash my own things and I buy a remnant of this and that and put things together somehow. I don't mind the work. I don't mind losing sleep and mending and patching and turning and twisting to make a decent appearance. But oh, it's hard when I see that after all I can't help the folks the way I hoped. I thought if I worked hard and saved, I could help them so much. And now I can't even take care of myself."

Worked in Sweatshop.

Jeska has been working in one of the worst sweatshops in Boston. The place has a low ceiling, for it is an old-fashioned building. There is no air. It is so dark the workers must sew by artificial light. It is a small room, and in it are crowded forty-two persons, all breathing repeatedly the same foul air. The floors sometimes are swept while the workers are there, and they breathe the dirt and germs. Near the working tables garbage pails stand all day—an offence to even the strongest workers, to say nothing of delicate girls and women who often grow faint from the odor.

The place is not fireproof. Every man and woman who works there does so at the risk of life.

Jeska's wages average $5 and $6 a week. Out of this she must pay $4 for board alone. She walks to save carfare. But how does she clothe herself?

"I do without," she explains. "When the money won't stretch far enough I just don't have things."

Here in her story, just as she told it to me:

I was born in Russia and am the oldest girl in a family of nine children. When very little it used to hurt me so to see how awfully hard my father and mother had to work and how we all suffered for bread to eat and clothing to wear. My father is a tailor, but he couldn't make enough for us all. So one day the idea came like bright sunlight to my mind. I would go to America and work hard and save money to send back home.

I came to America. First I went to Philadelphia, then I came to Boston. I went to work in several places, every one so bad I had a hard time to stand it. I could not make a wage to live.

Every day when season is on I work from 8 o'clock in the morning till 9 o'clock in the evening. Sometimes I work from 8 to 8. I would get twenty-five cents for the two extra hours. It ought to be fifteen cents for each hour, but they give me twenty-five.

But no matter how many hours I work, it is all the same—I cannot make money to live. In the good season I would earn more, but in the slack season I get so little; altogether I make no more than $5 or $6 a week.

Out of this I must pay $4 for my board and room. There is not much left, you see.

Had to Go on Strike.

I had to go on strike, for these things I could not bear. I have been on strike for sixteen weeks.

In the places where I worked, things were such I could not describe. We had bad air, and hardly any windows, and dirt, oh, so much dirt everywhere. We had the garbage close to our table and it could not be borne. Often they would sweep the room while we were sitting at our work and we had to breathe it all in—we could not help ourselves. What are we to do when they treat us like that?

The rooms were so dark we had to spoil our eyesight by artificial light, and even then it was not a good light. It was too dim. We have the same wash rooms for the men as for the girls and the women. It was dreadful. Everything about the place was hard to stand. It was always the same, wherever I would go to work.

You see, I am what they call a finisher on ladies' garments. That means I put in the linings and tack in the sleeves, and put the strip of lining down the front or back where the buttons go—on the edge.

I do all the work by hand. Some of the girls have to use the sewing machines—but not a finisher. The is with the needle. The sleeves I just baste, you understand.

Mother is Dying.

I will tell you about my family. My father is fifty years old, and it grows harder for him to make a living. My mother is so ill—she is dying. I have two brothers in the army. My sisters are all younger than I am. They cannot help much.

It was my poor mother's dream that all together we would be able to make enough to live in comfort and have enough to eat and to wear. I am afraid she will die, off there in Russia, while I am stranded here with no way to help myself.

You see, at the last place I worked, I was thrown out because I was a union girl. I worked there three or four months.

If I cannot get a job soon that will give me enough to live on, I shall be almost crazy wondering what will become of us all.

I live here in the West End, in one small room. I do all my own work and I am glad to do it. I look neat, you say. But you don't notice that my shoes are falling in holes. I keep them hidden as much as I can. No one knows the things I do without. I have no clothes except what I am wearing now.

'SLAVE' EXPERT SAYS NO GIRL OVER 10 IS SAFE

NEW YORK, Jan. 20.—In an address on the girl slave traffic, Stanley W. Finch, United States Commissioner, who is prosecuting this branch of work for the government, advocated a card index system for parents to enable them to keep track of their children.

"No young and attractive girl, over ten years old, is safe," said Mr. Finch. "Knowing conditions as I do, as the result of widespread investigation, I cannot impress upon parents too forcibly the great importance of knowing where their children are.

Then Mr. Finch told of what he considered an ideal system of keeping an eye on small children, which he said he had successfully inaugurated in his own home.

"I have several cards hung together near the front door, with a pencil beside them. Whenever one of my young children leaves the home they write where they are going. If it is to a neighbor's house to play with the children, they write this down. If they are playing ball on the square they write that down. In the evening when I come home I question them about what they have done and where they have been during the day."

Bitter Rate War Is Threatened by Steamship Lines

BERLIN, Jan. 20.—A rate war eclipsing all former ones may be declared between the North Transatlantic and the South Transatlantic steamship pools in consequence of immigrant line concessions given by Austria to the Canadian Pacific Railroad, to be operated in competition with the Austro-American line out of Trieste.

The scheme of the Canadian Pacific railroad is of tremendous consequence to the United States, in view of the fact that the concession will cause cheap rates and throw every month 20,000 immigrants—Austrians, Servians, Turks and Montenegrins—into America, via Montreal, and thence by rail to Toronto, as soon as the Balkan situation is cleared and immigration permitted.

A prominent steamship man here says if the Austro-American line does not agree to a uniform rate with the Canadian railroad a terrific contest will begin.

NOW MAGGIE TEYTE REFUSES TO SING

CHICAGO, Jan. 20.—Maggie Teyte, by her refusal to appear in "Mignon," has sounded the second note in the resounding discord which is now echoing through the affairs of the Chicago Grand Opera company.

Carolina White started the trouble when she said she was overworked. The management retorted that she ate too much.

INVESTIGATE BABY FARMS AT ARLINGTON

The Arlington Board of Selectmen last night will institute a vigorous probe of the charges that "baby farming" is carried on extensively in some sections of Arlington. Babies born out of wedlock or in poverty are "boarded out" with strangers, it is alleged, and neglected. The death of two infants in the same house within a few days, one of gastro-enteritis and the other of malnutrition, prompted the probe when an Arlington business man learned of the deaths and notified the police.

The matter will be gone into thoroughly and, if there be any cause for prosecution, the cases will be pushed to the finish, it is declared. No evidence of any crime, however, has been found as yet.

According to information at hand the babies are boarded out for such small sums that in order to make any profit on them the families have to neglect them and as a result they suffer from lack of clothing, food or care.

Comedian Sells Five-Pound Notes at Penny Apiece

LONDON, Jan. 20.—Unshaven and unkempt, a man stood outside the Grand Hotel in Trafalgar Square shouting "Five pound notes a penny each."

As he displayed his wares on a tray in front of him, people paused in dozens, giving a knowing look and going on their way. Presently a well-dressed man with a woman thought of asking if they were forgeries. Being assured that they were not, they wanted two, but were told that the sale was limited to one to each person.

The purchaser crossed the street to a well-known agency, and there to his amazement received gold in exchange for the note.

In a interview, the man, a comedian, said the whole thing was a result of a wager.

SUICIDE WIDOW ONCE LIVED IN BOSTON

Mrs. Eleanor A. Berry, a young widow who shot and killed herself in New York because she had lost $83,000 through long Island real estate investments with Edgar R. Jackson, was formerly a resident of Boston, and her meeting with Jackson in this city ten years ago led to her placing her fortune in the losing land venture.

WORLD IS O. K., SAYS EX-MAYOR HART, 84 TO-DAY

Thomas N. Hart, the oldest ex-Mayor of Boston, today passed his 84th birthday mile-stone. He is one year older than Samuel A. Green, who recently survived a serious illness due to a fall.

Mr. Hart is about the busiest district every day.

"Now tell the people that I am feeling fine," he said. "Not even I'm thought of a Democratic administration is run debase in our line of life. The future of the nation is safe, even with the Democrats in temporary power."

"Boston is the best city in the country. The United States is the best country in the world. We are living in the best age the world has ever seen. The nation is not going to the 'bow-wows.' Everything is bright and happy—even with a Democratic administration about to assume control at Washington. The future of our city, our State, and our nation is absolutely secure, and the welfare of our people bound to advance by leaps and bounds."

NEW AILMENT DESCRIBED BY EXPERT

"Many people have written to me," stated John Beasley Webb, the English expert, who is assisting in introducing Tona Vita in Boston, "asking me to state exactly what nervous debility is.

"Nervous Debility is, as the name implies, a weakness of the nervous system brought about by overtaxation. It is a functional ailment causing the nerves to be abnormal in their actions.

"One of the peculiar symptoms of this disease is that subjects to it invariably imagine they are suffering from some other organic disease.

"Nervous debility subjects will magnify the smallest pain into some acute disease; they will become 'blue' and will have no confidence in themselves, they will be worried by the smallest misfortunes, sleep at night will be broken and restless. Then finally when they have enfeebled, by the aid of their imagination, some disease or another, they will become speedy preys to it.

"Tona Vita is the logical relief from this insidious disease; its action on the nerves is like that of rain on parched flowers. It tones up the brain and in this way strengthens the whole body because a brain in good health can have no evil imaginings.

"The average man or woman should be able to live out the allotted three score and ten years; and they can and will if they make up their minds to banish this awful canker that is eating into the vitality of the human race, namely, nervous debility.

"There are years of life contained in every bottle of Tona Vita that is sold over the counters of the drug stores in Boston."

The UNITED STATES DUNLOP TIRE (Straight side)

is the premier automobile tire of the world

The Genuine Dunlop Tire

represents what thousands of motorists regard as the ideal type of tire. It is in no sense a new tire.

The Hartford Rubber Works practically introduced it into this country more than ten years ago, and it has always been one of the standard Hartford (now United States) tires.

No other tire has ever been imitated so widely as has this tire, and yet in no other tire has the original principle been so firmly adhered to.

The illustration on this page is of the original Dunlop tire, stripped of any and all the so-called "improvements" which some of the Dunlops have shown.

As an indication of the growth in favor which this genuine Dunlop has enjoyed, it may be stated that the United States Tire Company has, without the blare of trumpets, actually taken care of

More than a 600% Increase in Sales in Less than a Year's Time

So insistent has the demand become for this tire (in the face of the most strenuous competition on the part of other tires of a similar type), that we have been obliged to add immensely increased facilities for its manufacture during 1913. From now on the United States Tire Company will undertake to supply all the genuine Dunlop Tires demanded by the trade. Bear in mind—this Dunlop is the only Dunlop possessing all the merits of this extraordinary tire.

Easiest Tire on the market to put on or take off.

ULTIMATUM OF 14 DAYS GIVEN TO THE TURKS

CONSTANTINOPLE, Jan. 20.—An ultimatum of fourteen days' duration will be presented to the Turkish government today by the Balkan allies. Under its terms the Turks must renew the peace negotiations within that time or hostilities will be resumed.

The Turkish government is weakening and it is now believed that its reply to the collective note of the Powers will be in favor of peace. The National Assembly may be convened tomorrow in order to put the question of war or peace up to the representatives of the people, but even if this is done it is believed that the influence of the peace party is strong enough to secure a vote against war.

After sailing and taking provisions on board, the Turkish cruiser Hamidieh sailed today from Port Said for the Red Sea. On the way from the Dardanelles the Hamidieh shelled the Greek island of Syros, and fought a running battle with two small Greek cruisers.

Insist on Concessions.

LONDON, Jan. 20.—Instructions were received by the Russian Ambassador today to insist, on behalf of Servia, on the cession of the important Albanian cities of Prizrend, Ochrida and Ipbus. These cities are important commercial centres in interior Albania, and the Servian government contemplates connecting them with a new railway line if they become Servian territory.

HUNT BANDIT WHO SHOT TOWERMAN

The police are scouring the city and surrounding territory for an unknown desperado, who shot and probably fatally wounded Alexander Dewar, a towerman in the Dover street yards of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad. Dewar lies at the point of death and unconscious at the City Hospital. Unless he regains consciousness and tells some thing about his assailant the police have little hope in capturing the man.

To Facilitate Shopping During Our Great

BIRTHDAY SALE

Tomorrow and Wednesday

May We Ask Your Favorable Consideration of the Following Requests?

Carry Small Packages

We would appreciate having patrons take purchases with them whenever possible—doing so will aid in prompt shipment of large and bulky packages.

C. O. D. Purchases

We would consider it a decided help at this time if we were not asked to send C. O. D. purchases of less than 1.00—this will mean much economy of time in deliveries.

Bring Identification Coins

We would ask those purchasing at this sale who have charge accounts to bring their Identification Coins—doing so will save changing Books.

Regarding Deliveries

We would ask some indulgence in the matter of deliveries this week. There will be undoubtedly some unavoidable delays—however we shall make every effort to follow our regular schedules.

MAY POSTPONE GOLF TOURNEY AT BROOKLINE

A suggestion coming in the dates of the national open golf championship from June 6 and 7 to some time in September, in order that several British and French players may participate, will be agreeable to the officials of the Country Club, on whose links the event will be held.

Chairman Herbert Jaques, of the club's golf committee and a former national president of the United States Golf Association, says that such a postponement would undoubtedly bring to this country Edward Ray, the present British champion, as well as Harry Vardon and George Duncan, and possibly a number of the leading French professionals.

The arrangement would also enable several of the American professionals to play in the British championship, which will be held late in June. The Massachusetts association will raise a fund with which to send two of the leading professionals from this district to Hoylake. It is expected that Tom McNamara, of this city, and H. J. Brady, of Wollaston, who have fared prominently in the last few American championships, will be selected.

TODAY'S BEST SPORT STORY

"Buster" Brown Pilgrims' pitcher, tells the following:

FLOYD IBBELL, Frank Ibell's youthful son, handed the Western League umpires a hot one last season. It was during the Lincoln-Des Moines series and Davy Lloyd was up talking to the youngster in a corner of the grandstand when Jack Haskell came in.

"This is Mr. Haskell, Mr. Ibbell, one of the umpires," said Davy. Young Floyd gravely shook hands.

"Who's the best umpire in the Western League?" Davy then asked.

The budding big leaguer studied a moment. "Well, they ain't no good ones," he replied with an air of solemn conviction.

CORNELL PLANS FOR SEVEN IN 1914

NEW YORK, Jan. 20.—Following the recent rolling of the intercollegiate Hockey League in refusing to permit either the Princeton, Cornell or Dartmouth seven to meet Columbia on the ice this Winter, the management of the Blue and White team has decided to bend all its efforts in building up a team for next year out of the material that has reported this year.

Columbia had arranged a series of three games with Cornell, to be played early next month, but the action of the league automatically cancelled these matches and, as a result, the second game that Columbia has scheduled with Yale, which will be played on February 6, is the only college game on the list of the new local collegians.

PLAN FOR SERIES OF GAMES THIS FALL

The New England League and the Eastern Association are planning to have a post season Class B championship series next September. The two leagues have the same classification to organized baseball and the club owners believe that a battle between two championship teams would draw enough Massachusetts and Connecticut fans into the grounds to make the innovation a success.

MOTOR TRUCKS DISPLAYED AT BIG NEW SHOW

By J. C. KERRISON.

NEW YORK, Jan. 20.—Motor trucks of most every size and carrying capacity will be on view this evening at Madison Square Garden and the Grand Central Palace, when parts of the National Automobile Show will be on. There will be the package wagon, intended for lightest service, and trucks that can shoulder 20,000 pounds and bear them off without a stagger.

If anything is likely to be the marked feature of the show, it will no doubt be noted in the direction of what is so often spoken of now with the the pleasure cars—refinements, rather than marked changes in design. It is fair to say that the day of novelties has passed in the motor truck world, and whatever strikingly new things there may be will be adaptations of improvements in bodies and toward auxiliary devices for capitalizing the speed of trucks and making more than a quick journey between points will not be followed by inevitable delay, except where this delay is dependent upon traffic and terminal conditions.

Hoists, dump bodies and other such appliances are now the points of care and attention of the motor truck maker. He has in a way got outside of the realm of the automobile builder to enter the field of the body maker or accessory provider. The chassis—in the case of the longest established and reliable makes of trucks—is taken pretty much for granted.

$2,500,000 in Exhibits.

It may be a difference in terms, whether or the rear is where the motor, capable of it or behind it. It may mean a difference in the final drive, whether bevel gear, chain or worm.

The show will have some new things or modernized versions of older principles. The electric starter and self-cranking devices will be seen on many trucks.

As a business show it will be something worth while. There will be exhibits coming to more than $2,500,000 in value, and although no great crowds are expected, the interest will be more concentrated. As an industry which is coming into its own, the truck line is worthy of a place all by itself.

The motor truck industry in Boston has made the same rapid strides that the pleasure vehicle came along with. Hundreds of cities representatives of the various power vehicles are here, while many Boston merchants are here to look over the exhibits.

One of the new model "48" Packards will arrive in Boston today, and will be placed on exhibition at the showroom of the Packard Motor Car Company, No. 1089 Commonwealth avenue, tomorrow. This new seven-passenger car is the latest product intended for next Spring and Summer, and will be shown in Boston for a few days only.

The new model has the left drive, electric starting and lighting, concentrated control under the steering wheel, and refinements of design. Slight change has been made in the open bodies, although an electric light is placed in the tonneau, near the door, for convenience when entering or leaving the car at night. Space has been provided under the front seat for all side top curtains; the foot-board at the front of the tonneau being hinged to give access to this compartment.

So many orders have already been received by Alvan T. Fuller, for delivery as soon as the output can be shipped in the Spring, that the number of desirable dates is daily becoming smaller. The exhibition of the new "48" for a few days this week is intended to provide an opportunity for those who want the latest car in the Spring to see the car and place their orders before all the desirable delivery dates are purchased.

GALLANT BOUT WITH NIXON BIG CARD FOR FANS

By JACK CONWAY.

NEW ENGLAND boxing "fans" are displaying considerable interest in the twelve-round bout between Billy Nixon, the clever Cambridge lightweight, and Gilbert Gallant, the strong boy from Chelsea, which will take place at Manchester, N. H., on Wednesday evening. The bout will have an important bearing upon the lightweight championship of New England, as the winner of the contest will probably be matched to meet Steve Kennedy of Lawrence who is recognized as one of the leading 133-pound boys in this section of the country.

The Nixon-Gallant fight should be a sizzling affair. These two rugged batters met at the old American A. C. last Winter and put up a great struggle. The odds were pretty even at the close of the festivities.

Both men are anxious to win Wednesday night and are training hard for the "go." Gallant is a willing, two-handed fighter, but in Nixon he will meet the hardest hitting lightweight in New England and a boxer who combines cleverness with his ability to deal out terrific punishment.

A LARGE number of "fans" will take in the amateur bouts at the Cambridge A. A. on Thursday evening. Contests will be staged in three classes, namely, 115, 125 and 135 pound classes. The amateur boxers of Greater Boston have done some corking good work in the squared circle this season. They proved their worth when they defeated the New York representatives in four out of five bouts in the inter-city contests staged at the B. A. A. Saturday night.

BOWLING NOTES

Mickey McKee is making rapid strides to the front among the individuals of the City League. McKee has proved a valuable asset to the Boylston team this season, and with Warren Brown has done much in placing Boylston on the top of the heap. McKee is second to Peehler with an average of 104.

* * *

Strange how the champions fall by the wayside. Only a year ago this time the Murray team was in the height of its glory. Today it is in third position. Walter Kirk has been hit hard by the loss of Jack Taylor and McKee, while neither himself nor Sammy Green have been bowling up to their standard.

Foster and Bruce are tied for individual honors in the Mystic Valley league with an average of 103.

* * *

The triple tie in the Columbus Club league was broken in last week's competition when Mt. Hewdoin failed to come through with a clean slate. The Dorchester Lower Mills and Mt. Pleasant still remain on even terms, however. Hoyt, Buddy, Clark, Dolan and Curran all have an average of 96 in this league.

A return match between the Manhattans and Metropolitans will be rolled at the Somerville Avenue alleys tomorrow evening.

It would be well for the Union team of the Church league to give up. It is evident that the lack of interest hurt this league more than anything else this season.

* * *

There is hardly a chance that the Wool league teams will be able to overhaul the Columbus & Fleets leaders.

* * *

O'Rourke is credited with throwing the fastest ball in the City Hall league.

WELLS TO MEET JOHNSON.

PARIS, Jan. 20.—It is reported here that Al Palzer, the American heavy-weight, is to be sidetracked and that Bombardier Wells, the English fighter, is to meet Jack Johnson, the negro pugilist, in a finish fight to June.

SCHOOL TEAMS ARE READY FOR TRACK MEETS

The school indoor track season is on in full blast and from now until the Regimental games at the Irvington Street Armory on March 15 and the big B. A. A. schoolboy games at Mechanics building each week many dual and inclass games will be held. The material at the schools this season is very good and some wonderful schoolboy performances are anticipated in many events.

Several dual meets and class games were run off last week and more are scheduled for this week. In all the meets the boys are building themselves up for the Regimental games. This is the big event for the Boston High School track athletes and the championship of the city is decided at these games.

Many of the point winners of this meet last year are back at school and will be eligible to compete. The High School of Commerce team won the meet last year, defeating English High, which for eight successive seasons won the indoor championships.

Coach Fred L. O'Brien of English High has some good material from which to develop a team this year, the senior divisions but as the high school meet is divided into three divisions, senior, intermediate and junior, more athletes from the lower classes must be developed at English before another championship team can be developed.

Dorchester High will be heard from in the track meets this season as the school has an evenly balanced team with several stars. Dorchester opened its track season on Friday by defeating Malden High in a set of games.

Chester Breit was one of the big winners in the meet and he bids fair to upset things in the 300 and 600-yard runs this season. McCloskey and Toland are both showing fine form in the 1,000-yard run and Regular and Twitchell will be heard from in the mile run. Irving Green and Benson proved their worth in the shot put event.

Advice to the Heart-Hungry

The Aviator:

Dear Editor:—

I am an aviator. My friends say I am a high flyer when things are going good.

Of late, however, I have been falling off in my work and you know what that means to an aviator.

What would you advise me to do in order to get back into shape?

Yours sincerely,

CAPTAIN PROUT, B. A. A. SPRINTER, QUITS TRACK

Captain William C. Prout of the B. A. A. track team, who won fame as a sprinter for the Unicorn club, has retired. The veteran runner has not been very active in track work lately and his announcement that he is through with the game for good as an active competitor was not a surprise to his many friends in New England.

"Bill" has been unable to devote a great deal of his time to training during the past two years as a result of his law practice. But regardless of this fact, he has done some good work. Prout decided to lay the spike shoes on the shelf for all time just before the Olympic tryouts at the Harvard Stadium last June but did not tell his plans to his friends.

Prout is one of the best known athletes in New England. He has been an active performer for eight years. He first attracted attention as a member of the St. Joseph's A. A. when that club was very active under Reverend Peter Walsh in 1903 and 1904. Prout joined the B. A. A. the following year and covered himself with glory while with the Back Bay club.

Prout is a graduate of the Brown University High School. While a student at Brown he competed on the track team and he was prominent in all of the meets in which Brown took part.

This sterling athlete represented the United States at the 1908 Olympic games which were held in London but failed to place in the 400-meter race. Prout's loss will be mourned by athletic lovers throughout New England.

KEMP TO MANAGE BIG DOG EXHIBIT

Thomas E. L. Kemp, owner of one of the best St. Bernard dogs in this country or in England, has been chosen superintendent of the all-breed show of the Eastern Dog Club, at Mechanics' building the last week in February. That fact prevents Kemp from exhibiting his dogs in competition. In addition to the important special prizes already announced by the Eastern Dog Club, $100 cash or plate of that value will be given to the owner of the best pack of English foxhounds (five couples). The second best pack will get $25 cash or plate.

WELCH TO LEAD CARLISLE.

Harvard Wrestlers to Meet Technology in Opening Mat Bouts

The Harvard wrestling season, which is to begin within two weeks with a match with Technology, opens with every prospect of a championship season for the Crimson. The men are all veterans, including several University champions.

Among the members of the team are Captain W. B. Tyler, the champion heavyweight of Harvard; A. J. Weatherhead, substitute end on the football squad, and little holder in the 175-pound class; J. F. Stanbaugh, a member of the second football eleven; E. R. McCall, J. Coulson, H. E. Goodfriend and F. Kivelsky.

Harvard is not in the intercollegiate league, and graduates are allowed to wrestle on the team. The men are coached by S. Anderson.

COLLEGE SWIMMERS MAY BREAK WITH A. A. U. RULERS

PRINCETON, N. J., Jan. 20.—According to the statement of Goulding K. Wight, captain of Princeton's water polo team and president of the Intercollegiate Swimming Association it seems likely that the collegiate organization will in the future disregard the rulings of the Amateur Athletic Union in the matter of the eligibility of its members. Wight has called a special meeting of the association to be held in New York tomorrow night, and it is probable that at that time definite steps will be taken to override the Athletic Union's authority.

The trouble has arisen over the case of Sandvik, of the University of Pennsylvania, who was debarred from further amateur competitions by the Amateur Athletic Union on charges of professionalism based on the fact that he had charge of a hotel swimming pool last Summer. The Pennsylvania faculty thoroughly investigated the case and declared the charges false.

HARVARD MAN TO COACH IN WEST

Charles Stephenson, assistant coach of Harvard rowing, has received a contract from the Grand Rapids Boat Club of Michigan in which he is engaged as coach of that club for next Summer and he will have the option of signing a new contract for a longer stay a. the expiration of the Summer season. If he desires the club has a membership of 500 and is planning to go more extensively into the sport next season. This club also has a crack hockey team and participates in other sports.

SIDELIGHTS ON SPORTS

By A. H. C. MITCHELL.

HADDOCK, Ga., where several battery men under reserve to the Boston National League club will do some preliminary training early in March, is about sixteen miles north of Macon. The town seems to consist of a two by four depot. No other buildings are visible to the naked eye; at least that was the case several years ago when the writer visited the place at the invitation of George Stallings, the new manager of Boston Nationals.

Stallings owns a plantation there—a regular Southern plantation in the strictest sense of the word. The plantation consists of several thousand acres, mostly devoted to the cultivation of cotton.

THE plantation is a little town in itself. The house in which Stallings lives is large and commodious, and in the rear of it are outbuildings for the use of the negro servants. Nearby is a cotton gin. Scattered around within sight of the mansion are numerous small houses, used as quarters by the negro families who work the plantation. Beyond, nestling among the pine trees, is a little church and in another direction is the negro schoolhouse for the little negro children.

Large trees surround the mansion. Between two of them is stretched home-made hammocks constructed of two long, thin boards and barrel staves, one of the most comfortable articles of furniture ever evolved by mankind. (God bless the inventor.)

ONE must be considerable of a student of negro nature to properly conduct such a plantation as Stallings owns. Just before the writer visited the place Stallings had been annoyed by the disappearance of several little pigs that he kept enclosed with a view of turning them into succulent Georgia cured hams when the proper time arrived.

Stallings suspected that two of his negroes, named respectively Pete and Jim, were responsible for the disappearance of his pigs, but try as he would he couldn't catch them in the act. Cudgeling his brain, he finally recalled that an old ship's compass was stored away in the attic. He researched and brought forth this aid to navigation, saw that it was in working order and the next Sunday, covering the compass with a mealsack, he called all the negroes on the plantation before him.

PETE and Jim came with the others.

Stallings made them form a circle and maneuvered them around until he had Pete and Jim together where he wanted them. He then spoke as follows:

"Some of you niggers have been stealing my pigs. (Loud murmurs of dissent.)

"I don't know which one of you is the thief. (Unmistakable signs of relief.)

"But the Conjer Man done give me an instrument by which the guilty individual will most un-mis-ta-ka-bly be ascertained in the following somewhat remarkable manner." (Signs of panic in the circle. Pete and Jim try to edge away but are sharply called back to their places.)

Stallings placed the mealsack containing the compass on a stump beside which he had delivered his oration. With a few mysterious passes of his hands he held the negroes spellbound, after which he removed the sack, juggled the compass and laid it on the stump. The needle, after a brief wabble, pointed directly at Pete and Jim, who thereupon fell to their knees and mumbled incoherently.

A few minutes later they confessed and were punished by a fine and a severe lecture. Nothing has since been stolen on Stallings' plantation.

STALLINGS has owned this plantation for many years. Every Spring he invites a few of the members of the team he happens to be managing—he has in the last few years managed the Detroit, New York and Buffalo clubs—to pay him a visit just before the regular training season begins. Usually he limits his invitation to certain pitchers and catchers. There is no regular drill on the plantation, but there are clearings where the players can limber up and there are miles of country to be explored in road work.

Stallings is a fine host. He has a winning personality. He is a big, well-dressed, good-looking man, remarkable in more ways than one. He is a hard loser, which is a good thing for the manager of a ball club to be. On the bench is language is what is known as picturesque when a player pulls off a bonehead piece of work. The Boston Nationals will not know what struck them when Stallings gets fairly started.

UNICORN RELAY TEAM HOPES TO MAKE RECORDS

THOMAS J. HALPIN.

(Quarter-mile Champion of United States and Canada).

The Boston A. A. relay team that will compete against the New York A. C. and Irish American teams is one of the strongest that has ever represented the Unicorn club.

Coach Ryder firmly believes that the team will be headed with the two relay records which are to be run in Mechanics Building. Seldom in the history of the B. A. A. have such sterling quarter-milers ever represented the club during the indoor season. The team that will make the trip to New York and also compete against the New York A. C. and the Pastime Club in Mechanics Building on February 8, is composed of Lee, Merriew, Caldwell and Halpin.

Lee is conceded to be the best indoor half-miler in the world. He has never trained for a race as he does but believe that it agrees with his system. His most common method of getting in shape is long walks through the country. Squash racquets are also part of his training stunts.

Ryder has tried in vain to make the Brookline youth settle down and start some system of training, and up to the present time has been quite successful in his efforts. Lee promises to be faster than ever, and this is a broad statement when it is to be considered that last year he covered the half mile in 1:56 2-5.

Merrihew Never Trains.

Merrihew was a fortune member of the Harvard track team, and has been a member of the B. A. A. relay team for several seasons. He also is a mediocre athlete, never preparing himself for his races, owing to his natural ability he has succeeded in performing up to expectations in the past races. He has, however, spent much time on the Irvington Oval this year so that he should be benefited by his two months' training.

Caldwell is a student at Cornell and is under the tutelage of Jack Moakley, one of the greatest athletic trainers in the world. Caldwell has never competed indoors to any extent, so that he will be more of a puzzle till his first race. Outdoors there is not a half-miler in the country who can show the Newburyport athlete his heels.

Strong Irish-American Team.

The Boston team will face one of the fastest combinations of stars that the Irish-American club has ever assembled in its long and successful career in athletics. Sheppard, Rosenberger, Pepis and Kivlat make up the team.

These names are household words all over the country where ever athletics are mentioned. There is not a faster team to be had in any part of the United States. It is felt that if the Boston club defeats the New Yorkers they will have to put up a new record to do so. A handsome trophy will be donated which must be won three times in order to become the permanent property of the winning club.

GEORGE TUOHEY IS ANXIOUS TO SIGN GOTCH FOR BOUT

George V. Tuohey left this city yesterday for Chicago, where he will look over several prominent foreign wrestlers for whose services he has an optional agreement, to select the best possible opponent for Zbyszko for a finish bout at Mechanics building on February 12.

Tuohey expects to remain in the Windy City for a few days, and should he find time will journey to Humboldt, Ia., to confer with Champion Frank Gotch. "Little Georgie" has great influence on Gotch, and it would not be surprising to learn that Gotch has agreed to come to Boston and wrestle in the near future. At any rate, Tuohey is sure to make him a flattering offer.

MISSED.

When I was but
A childish wait
It was my fondest yearning
To clout the pill
O'er vale and hill
And set the big leagues burning.

But as I grew Ambition new
Then made my bosom hanker;
For bankers then
Had piles of yen,
And I would be a banker.

The bankers then
Were wealthy men,
With money by the bucket,
But those who bill
The harebide pill
Now glom the gleaming ducat.

A bank pulls in
A pile of tin,
A large percentage earning,
But little jobs
Like Tyrus Cobb's—
Oh, what's the use of yearning?

Jess Willard may not be a world beater in the ring, but he has earned a niche in the Hall of Fame as the most popular meal ticket in captivity.

Speaking of Mr. Willard, searching for meal tickets appears to have become the national game. Up to date one T. Jones holds the championship by seven furloughs.

As we understand it, the only way Leach Cross can get a decision over Joe Rivers is to invigle him into a dentist's chair.

There is much discussion over Hal Chase's ability to play second base, but the consensus of opinion is that if he does he will be the greatest left-handed second baseman in the American league.

DEVORE WINS $1,500 ON HIS FACE VALUE

PARKERSBURG, W. Va., Jan. 20.—Josh Devore of the Giants, who is in this city, is $1,500 richer today. Josh was introduced to a local business man as the Giants' outfielder.

The latter didn't believe it and said Josh was a masquerader. Furthermore, he offered to bet Devore $1,500 to $500 that the latter couldn't prove his identity. Josh took him up and "cashed in."

Famous Chess Stars in Second Round Title Tournament

NEW YORK, Jan. 20.—Play in the American National Chessplayers tourney, which began here yesterday, will be continued today. The men entered are David Janowski, the French champion; Frank J. Marshall, the United States champion; Jose R. Capablanca of Havana, winner of the San Sebastian tournament in 1911; Oscar Chajes, Chicago; L. B. Zapolean, Washington; H. Liebenstein, Baltimore; Norman T. Whitaker, Philadelphia; Harry Kline, Boston; J. S. Morrison, Toronto; J. Stapfer, the New Jersey champion, and Charles Jaffe, A. Kupchik, I. Tenneswurzel and S. Rubinstein, New York.

The pairing for today's round in addition to the postponed game between Janowski and Marshall, is as follows:

Jaffe vs. Liebenstein, Chajes vs. Zapolean, Marshall vs. Kupchik, Whitaker vs. Capablanca, Janowski vs. Rubinstein, Morrison vs. Tenneswurzel and Stapfer vs. Kline.

CLAFLIN, HARVARD HOCKEY PLAYER, IS SICK WITH MUMPS

The chances of the Harvard hockey team against the crack Princeton sextet when the two meet Wednesday evening of this week were most seriously lessened yesterday when William H. Claflin, Jr., the stocky little cornerpoint of the Crimson skaters, was taken home from his college quarters with a severe case of mumps. It will probably be two weeks before Claflin will be back in the game again.

Claflin was one of the stars of the fast freshman hockey team a year ago this season to "make good" right off at the start of the work at the Arena. Hillsz in in fine shape the hole left vacant by the graduation of "Newt" Foster. In all the victories of the Harvard team thus far, Claflin has had a big share of the work, and his dashes up the ice all alone with the puck, after wrestling it from an opponent, had become one of the regular features of the Harvard games.

FOGLER-GOULLET ARE WINNERS IN BIG BIKE RACE

PARIS, Jan. 20.—The six day bicycle race ended last evening with a victory for the American-Australian team. Jos Fogler of Brooklyn and Goullet, who covered 4,467½ kilometres (approximately 2,780 miles) in 144 hours.

The best previous record was made by McFarland and Moran in New York in 1908. They covered 2,737 miles in 142 hours.

The French team, Dupuzy and Laplas, finished second, with the American, Walthour and Wiley, third. Moran and Root were placed seventh. Ten teams finished.

Ella Wheeler Wilcox Says:

To Really Live Be a Factor in the World's Progress

Copyright, 1913, by American-Journal Examiner.

BEGIN your thankfulness this day by gratitude for being allowed to live in such an era as the present one.

I have before me a report of the Connecticut Society for Mental Hygiene. This society studies the cause and cure of mental troubles, hysteria, delusions, insanity; and provides aid for such sufferers in such extent as is possible.

One hundred years ago insanity was regarded as a disgrace, and the poor victims of a mental malady were supposed to have brought on their trouble by forbidding with devils. They were thrust into dark dungeons, chained, starved and beaten in order to drive out the demons. Today all over the civilized world science is working with an earnest effort to help alleviate the sorrows of the insane.

With the added assistance of a social worker of wide experience, Miss Jessie I. Beiyea (formerly in charge of the Bureau for the Charity Organization Society of New York City), the Connecticut Society for Mental Hygiene is now able to put into operation its plan for the prevention of nervous and mental disorders. This intensive social service in mental hygiene will be done by Field Secretary Miss Beiyea, and the Executive Secretary, Clifford W. Beers, either of whom may be consulted.

In this they will co-operate with hospital physicians and other members of the medical profession who are interested in the development of the society's work.

Great Movement Ridiculed

The great work being done by good men and women toward a broader and kinder system of treating prisoners, the growing success of the parole experiment, which allows men under sentence to work in the open air, in place of being herded behind bars, the associations formed for helping men who come out of prison to obtain a new hold on life and hope, all these things are comparatively new in the world.

A hundred years ago, men were thrown into prison and forgotten by the world for no worse crime than debt.

It was not until 1869 that Henry Bergh formed the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. He was ridiculed by the world at large, and respectable and intellectual periodicals indulged in lamentations and caricaturing cartoons of this great and good man and his merciful ides.

Owners of animals could overload, beat and kill their faithful horse, or donkey, or starve and torture dogs and cats, and there was no law to punish them, at that time.

Let us be thankful that we live in a better era. Let us be thankful that we are at liberty to worship God in our own way, and according to our own light, and that no religious monopoly exists which can make us martyrs because we differ with any established idea; or can brand us as heretics or witches and burn us to the stake for our beliefs.

Let us thank God for all the marvelous inventions which have come into the world during our lifetime, knowing they mean emancipation from drudgery for the race in time, and more leisure for study, pleasure and growth.

Progression Not an Evil

Do not imagine that everything which means progression for the many will prove an evil to you, unless you permit it by refusing to progress with the times.

A man had carried the mail once a day to a suburban town for twenty years with his horse and cart. Now the trolley brings it three times a day, and the man is bitter with resentment toward the people who sent the petition to Washington for the new method.

He feels that "a poor man's bread has been taken from his mouth."

That is what the old stage drivers thought when the railroads first came through the land.

But the hundreds of thousands of poor men employed by the railroads thought differently.

The weary stage horses, no doubt, thought differently.

Each new invention means new avenues and industries to the progressive and up-to-date man and woman.

Be ready, therefore, to fit yourself to new conditions.

Be active, alert, expectant and alive to the spirit of change and invention which is in the air.

Your present business may become obsolete, but YOU cannot be obsolete unless you choose to turn into a fossil. If you become a fossil, with no thought beyond your present condition and employment, do not suppose you can stop the progress of the whole world to suit your notion.

It will roll its wheels over you and grind you to powder unless you see fit to move along with it.

Machinery never yet pauperized the best workman in any business. He always finds a situation in something else when his own especial line of work ceases to be in demand.

There have always existed men who were determined to hinder and oppose any new idea.

The men who carried messages by relays of equestrians were not quick to welcome the telegraph.

Welcome New Inventions

The sailing vessel was the enemy of the steamship, and the gas company did not enthuse over the introduction of the electric light.

Yet who would return to the days of stage coaches and horse messengers and open oil and lamps.

Let us welcome the new inventions and believe the world will find employment for all of us, no matter what labor-saving machine comes into use.

There are wonderful realms of beauty in and about our workaday world, if only we had time to explore them.

I believe that in one hundred years to come the world's drudgery will all be done by machinery; and that men and women will travel through the air on the wings of the wind, and have time to enjoy the wonders of their own minds and soul, which are sealed books to the majority now because of the eternal grind of daily life.

Think what the bicycle did for humanity; think of the opportunity it gave men and women to enjoy God's air and the beauty of nature, and the economy of time it meant and still means to them.

The trolley car and the automobile are doing the same blessed work and saving untold suffering to animals and gives employment to thousands of men and women.

Whatever today is evolving from the mind of man in the way of new labor-saving inventions means EMPLOYMENT-GIVING to the intelligent and progressive and adaptable minded.

Keep yourself ready to fit into new conditions, and do not worry about the passing of the old.

And thank God that you live today.

ELLA WHEELER WILCOX.

THANK God for life in such an age as this,
Rich with the promises of better things,
Thank God for being part of this great nation's heart,
Whose strong pulsations are not ruled by Kings.

Our thanks for fearless and protesting speech
When cloven hoofs show 'neath the robes of state.
For us no servile song of "Kings can do no wrong"—
Not royal birth, but worth, makes rulers great.

Thank God for peace within our border lands,
And for the love of peace within each soul.
Who thinks on peace has wrought mosaic-squares of thought
In the foundation of our future goal.

Our thanks for love, and knowledge of love's laws.
Love is a greater power than vested might.
Love is the central source of all enduring force.
Love is the law that sets the whole world right.

Our thanks for that increasing torch of light
The tireless hand of science holds abroad,
And may its growing blaze shine on all hidden ways
Till man beholds the silhouette of God!

A Bachelor's Diary

By MAX

DEC. 17.—I have decided to take Manette home for Christmas. Jack Spencer and his wife can't come to us and I feel that Christmas would be a farce without them. A year ago we had Elizabeth.

Men are not credited with having any sentiment, Diary. A woman observes many sad anniversaries, and because the man who went through the valley with her says nothing, she thinks she is observing them since that he does not remember that talk date is unlike all others in the year.

That is where we are misjudged. We never make occasions of our grief, and we do not linger around our graves after the manner of women. But the memory is there.

I will take Manette and Richards and Tompkins on a journey of several thousand miles with but one real purpose in my heart—that on Christmas morning I may go out all alone and lay a wreath on a certain little mound in the cemetery.

Dec. 18.—We are to start in the morning, and when I told the widow this evening that we would be gone only ten days, she seemed much surprised.

"You will keep your suite while you are gone," she said, "and go to the great expense of such a journey for four persons for such a short time? You must," she added, somewhat speculatively, "be a very wealthy man.

"I have heard," she added, "that you never made a business mistake. I wish you would take care of my money. I am such a poor, little, helpless creature."

"Excuse me for a moment." I replied, and getting a letter from Mrs. Spencer out of my pocket, turned to Warning No. 8:

"When she speaks of herself as a helpless little creature, she is making an appeal to your sympathies. She is not helpless; no widow is helpless. It is only the woman who has never married who is helpless, and she weighs, I judge from your description, at least 175 pounds. To this description of herself, make some reply about the weather."

"It may be unwise," I replied, "to make this sudden change of climate for Manette, but I must be there on Christmas day, and you surely have noticed that I cannot leave her a moment."

"The child is fortunate," said the widow, "in having some one to guard her who is so brave, and so strong."

I asked her to excuse me again, and turned to Warning No. 7:

"She will tell you you are So Brave and So Strong. Be on your guard, Max! A real pretty woman can do anything with a man by telling him he is So Brave and So Strong. Just tell her how frightened you were when the burglar got in, and invent some old woman's complaint like sick headaches and asthma."

I had to laugh at this, and laughed so heartily the widow's curiosity was aroused.

"What is it," she said, "that you keep referring to and which causes you so much amusement?"

"I have found is necessary," I said, "to put myself in the care of a guardian. I carry a letter of instructions with me, and find it imperative to constantly consult it when in the presence of a charming woman like you."

She didn't even notice the compliment. She was consumed with curiosity.

"Is your guardian," she asked, "a man or woman?"

I refused to say.

Dec. 19.—While waiting for Richards to get Manette ready for the train I have been checking up the Christmas bills Mrs. Spencer contracted for Manette, and I just came across this item:

"For fur coat for French doll, with muff and hat to match, $30."

I paused with my pen ready to make out a check. "I wonder," I said 'if that woman who signs herself 'Tired Teacher' ever spend $30 on furs for herself. I wonder if she is comfortably clothed?"

The widow was waiting on the hotel porch when we came down. Manette had asked Alice to accompany us to the station, and, of course, the invitation included her mother.

I mentioned the item of the doll's fur to her when we were in the carriage. "It is all right so far as Manette is concerned," I said, "but it makes me wonder if the school teacher I told you about has half as much to spend on her Winter cloak."

"She is probably an adventuress," she said, "and is working on your sympathies because you have money. When I think how many there are who think of you only as a millionaire, my heart aches for you."

When my family and I were on the train and we waved good-bys to the widow and the train had started, I turned to Warning No. 11:

"It is always wise for a man to run for his life from the woman who says her heart aches for him."

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

AND SO SHE IS

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am twenty years old and deeply in love with a girl who is nineteen. While keeping company with her a friend of hers told her something about me which is not true. She never told me, but she had a friend of mine tell me, and I have never gone out with her again. I happened to be walking around the block last evening and she seemed to think she was better than I.

BROKENHEARTED.

AND isn't she better than you? You don't really love her if you have any doubts on that point.

If she wants to make up, call on her and meet her more than half way in a reconciliation. Then see that you conduct yourself in such a way she will not doubt you again.

MONEY ISN'T ALL

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am a young man seventeen years old, deeply in love with a young lady two years my senior. I know her well and I want to find out whether she returns my love. How can I best do this and what words shall I say to her if I find she loves me, as I want her to marry me. I have plenty of money to marry and be comfortable on.

YOUTHFUL LOVER.

A BOY of seventeen, be he a millionaire, is too young to marry. Withhold that proposal till you are at least four years older, and the words in which to make it will come without coaching.

CERTAINLY

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am a young lady who recently made the acquaintance of another young lady in the office opposite to that in which I am employed. There is a young man in the office of my friend whom I would very much like to meet. I know that he has noticed me several times although we never have spoken. Do you think it would be proper for me to ask the young lady in that office to arrange it so we may be introduced?

A. V.

THERE would be no impropriety in asking your friend to introduce you, though it is preferable that the man seek the introduction.

Senselessness of Men

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

"As a rule, women are more to be trusted in affairs of the heart than men."—Selected.

WHEN a man falls in love he hasn't any more sense than a boy in a candy shop. The letters I receive from the men would prove this contention if proof outside of what one sees in real life every day were needed.

A man falls in love with the very wrong kind of a woman so many, many times that it is nothing short of a miracle that there are not more divorces. He looks at the wearing quality of the cover when he goes to buy an umbrella. In his love-choosing he looks only at the beauty of the handle.

One who signs himself "Troubled," writes that he is good-looking. So many men write this of themselves and think it is true! He says that he has always been popular with the ladies; that he doesn't try to make a hit with them, but they just take to him naturally.

The poor things see his charms and succumb. They can't help it, and neither can he.

He went on his vacation and met a woman whom he describes by those very objectionable adjectives, "stunning" and "swell;" questionable because they so often denote two empty heads; one on the shoulders of the one who utters them, and one on the shoulders of the one they describe.

She was engaged, but when she saw him she promptly broke the engagement. She writes him on "swell" writing paper, which her former lover gave her; gave him a seal ring, which was the gift of her former lover, and gave him a photograph of herself, which her former lover paid for.

All this she regards as a joke on Lover No. One and proof of her surrender to the charms of the second man.

"Troubled" says he loves her; that it was love at first sight. He adds, however, that there is a girl waiting for him "who is not quite so swell." She has been waiting till he could command a salary sufficiently large to warrant their marrying, but now that he has the salary he feels that the girl who is "stunning and swell" is better suited to him.

He wants to know what he shall do.

Marry the second girl, of course! I wouldn't want him to marry the first girl and bring any sorrow into her life. I want him to take his conceit and that beauty which no woman can resist and lay them at the feet of the second love.

She was untrue to her lover because of him. She was untrue to herself in giving him gifts the former lover had given her. She will be untrue to this second lover. Add that is what he needs!

It will be good for his soul's salvation to give his love into the keeping of a woman who will walk all over it. He needs a little humiliation; he must be made to suffer the pain he has inflicted.

He is too sure of his charms. He is smothered in his self-satisfaction. A good woman could never apply the remedy he needs. She would give tears; what he needs is scorn.

He says the girl who has been waiting for him all these years has been economical, and a great help to him in saving money. She has always refused to let him take her in a taxicab, preferring to walk or ride in a street car. She has steadily refused to accept any gifts from him that are costly, and seems to have been an ideal little sweetheart to have.

She is too good for you, Mr. Troubled! You would have to be born again to deserve her, and I am afraid you can never be that, for the self-satisfied man has no desire to be un-made and made all over again.

For your happiness I would urge you to return to your first love. But I am not sure it would be for her happiness, and it is with her happiness I am most concerned.

Sleep Producers—Mrs. Meeker (at the play)—I do wish you'd pay more attention to this play, George; it's as good as a sermon.

Mr. Meeker (dozing)—It certainly is, my dear, but the orchestra wakes me up between acts.

The Only Way

"You cannot burn the candle at both ends," said the young wife, remonstrating with her hard-working literary husband.

"I'm afraid, my dear," was the reply, "it is the only way to make both ends meet."

Health Restored by Eckman's Alterative

A Valuable Remedy for Throat and Lungs

If you are a sufferer from Glandular Tuberculosis, or know of anyone so afflicted, it might be well to investigate this case, where the writer decided after a year of suffering, he found permanent relief and full recovery to health by using Eckman's Alterative, a medicine which has been effective in many cases of Tuberculosis.—

"Lansdale, Pa., Philia., Pa.

"Gentlemen:—In March, 1909, I was taken sick and my doctor pronounced my case 'Tuberculosis in the Glands.' Medical treatment did not help me, and on my doctor's advice, I went to a hospital to be operated upon, but relief was only temporary. I lost much flesh and at times would have cold sweats and fever. In April, 1910, I returned to the hospital, but the continued operations were not benefiting me.

"In the meantime, a friend of mine advised Eckman's Alterative, saying it was good for Tuberculosis. The wounds in my neck were then in a very frightful condition when I started to take it. After using two bottles, I found I was improving, having gained weight, could eat and was able to work. I continued using it until I was well, which was in November, 1910. Before I took the medicine I had three hemorrhages; since I have been taking it, I have not had any. On November 11, 1910, I started to work, and since that time I have not lost one day's work through sickness. I can highly recommend Eckman's Alterative to anyone who is suffering from Tuberculosis or Glandular trouble, if provided they use it as directed. I will gladly correspond with any party desiring further information of what the medicine did for me.

(Sworn affidavit) ALBERT H. WITTIG.

Eckman's Alterative is effective in Bronchitis, Asthma, Hay Fever, Throat and Lung Troubles and in upbuilding the system. Does not contain poisons, opiates or habit-forming drugs. For sale by all Riker-Jaynes stores, Heusinton & Dutton Drug Dept. and other leading druggists. Ask for booklet telling of recoveries and write to Eckman Laboratory, Philadelphia, Pa., for additional evidence.

It takes good food to build children like these—and in this case, what is good for the child is good for the grown-ups.

Oatmeal is an admirable food. In its combined richness of protein (which builds brain, bone, flesh and blood) and fat and carbohydrates (which supply heat and energy) oatmeal leads other foods.

If you want the authority for this statement, send for the U. S. Department of Agriculture Bulletin No. 249, and look on page 12.

There are other good foods to give children, but you can always be sure that oatmeal is a safe, sure food; and if you serve H-O Oatmeal you can be sure that it will always be properly cooked.

Twenty minutes on your stove plus the more-than-two-hours' cooking we give it in the mill, insures that.

Right away, order a package of H-O from your grocer. Costs less than half-cent a dish.

MORE WOMEN WRITE TO AMERICAN ABOUT HOMES FOR BABIES

Hundreds of women in New England have been attracted by the story in the AMERICAN, saying many mothers in New England were willing to give their babies away to persons who will promise good homes.

Now the women who are seeking the babies are writing letters to the AMERICAN asking that they be supplied.

Here are some of the letters.

Assured of Education.

I read in the Boston AMERICAN of babies to be given away. I would like one—a girl from a year to two—as my own—a pretty one and a bright one. There is only myself and husband. We own a nice home, a mile from the village, and a farm. I am the daughter of a Civil War veteran and belong to the Ladies' auxiliary. I hold no office.

I would give the baby as good a home as money can buy, and a good education. We both are fond of children. Hoping to hear by return mail. We have a telephone in the house here.

Hinsdale, Mass.

I saw an article in yesterday's AMERICAN about the babies wanting homes and would like to say that while we are not rich, we would like to take Baby Gordon, if some one else has not got him. We will give him a good, comfortable home and good education. And in a few years we are going West, and then no one would know he is not our own. We have a nice place for a child on the outskirts of a city—plenty of room and grass to roll in.

We are not old people, and we lost our only baby last July. As I am alone most of the time, I get very lonely.

I shall be in Boston very soon for a few days, and if you would send me a few of the addresses of those babies I might be able to take one. I hope you will consider this letter favorably, and that I may hear from you soon. I beg to remain.

Lawston, Me.

Room for Baby Gordon.

I would like to know if I could have Baby Gordon. I have no children of my own.

Newtonville, Mass.

Asks Information.

Will you kindly tell me where I could reach the person to whom I might apply to adopt the child here-with enclosed (Frank Gordon), that I clipped from the Sunday AMERICAN. Hoping to hear from you soon, I remain.

Manchester, N. H.

"Best to Be Had."

Will give a good home to a little girl two or three years old. Would prefer the Gordon baby, if such could be possible. I have a good house and plenty of yard and garden room. The child could have the best that I to be had. We have looked many places, but have never found a child for adoption. Now good references could be furnished. Let us know what results can be obtained, and for what consideration.

Hoping we can learn more about Master Gordon, I am,

Natick.

Wants to See Three.

I saw in your paper Sunday, that there were babies to be given away. I wish you would please let me know where I can see Baby G., Baby Frank Gordon and Baby X. Please let me know where the baby home is in Boston, and oblige,

Cambridge.

For Baby G's Mother.

Would like to have Baby G's mother write to me.

Waltham, Mass.

Telephone or Write.

I saw the story in your Sunday paper for people who would like to adopt a baby. I would like very much to adopt a baby two or three years old. I would like you to please send me Baby Gordon, if he hasn't been taken, for I love him already as my own. We have no children and could easily take care of him. My husband is manager of a theatre and is very willing that I take him. If Baby Gordon has been taken (I hope he hasn't), you can bring me another little boy, two or three years old, as I am very longing for a dear little baby boy in our home.

Please send him at once and tell me when he is coming so I can go and meet him at the station. I want him at once, if you will be kind enough to bring him, for I can't wait very long. I am so anxious to have him. Please telephone or write and tell me when you are coming. You will find his photo enclosed in my letter.

Concord, N. H.

Wants Month-Old Babe.

I saw in the Boston AMERICAN that you have some little children. I would like to have one, and I would like to know if a paper from a priest would be reference enough to get one of them. If so, I would like to have one of the little babies. I would rather have one a month old. Hoping to hear from you soon when I can go and see them and just where in Boston to find them, for I do not know Boston very well, I remain.

Caryville, Mass.

Likes Christmas Boy.

I saw your story in the Sunday AMERICAN which told about babies wanting good homes. I am married five years and would like to adopt one of your babies. I would like the Christmas baby. I would like a boy, and I would treat it as my own, as I love children. I hope I will have a reply.

Boston.

Call for Baby X.

Having seen in the Boston AMERICAN, Sunday paper, pictures of the little children being given away, I and my wife, who have no children, would like to adopt one and would give Baby X a good home. We would bring him or her up right. I am enclosing picture so you will know which one we want. Hoping to hear from you by return mail.

South Windham, Me.

Would Board a Baby.

I saw your story in the Sunday AMERICAN, wanting a place to give your baby away, as you could not support it on what you earned. I love children dearly. I would board your little girl baby for $100, if you would like to keep it, or would take and care for it for nothing. I am a lady of experience and have had a State license, but have only one baby at a time. I like one for company. I love them dearly to make little things for. I have a lovely carriage and everything nice. My baby is grown up.

I can give the best or reference.

Bowley, Mass.

SECOND TRIAL OF DARROW BEGINS

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 20.—The second trial of Clarence S. Darrow, charged with bribery in connection with the selection of jurors for the trial of James B. McNamara, was called for hearing today. Judge W. McConlin of Madera County was especially named by the Governor to preside. Darrow, who is an attorney of record in his own defence, planned to take a more active part in the hearing this time. The indictment on which he faces trial today charges bribery of Robert F. Bain, the only sworn juror selected at the McNamara trial.

GIRLS WRITE OF LIFE ON $8 A WEEK

To judge by the number of letters on the subject pouring into the office of the AMERICAN, one of the principal topics among women of New England just now is, "Can a girl live on $8 a week?"

Many say she can, others that she cannot. Scores of writers are telling how it can be done easily, and the opponents to this belief tell why it is impossible. Here are some of the letters:

Has Two Solutions.

Editor AMERICAN:

I have long been a reader of the AMERICAN and have found it a very interesting paper, but what has interested me most is the article concerning how a girl can live on $8 a week. Very according to my experience I think a girl, if not extravagant, can live well on $8 as follows:

Room and board	$3.00
Carfares	.50
Clothing	1.00
Amusements	.50
To put by for a rainy day	1.00
Total	$6.00

And if possible to find a suitable roomate she can live much cheaper by hiring a bedroom and kitchenette and do your own cooking and washing. As I have tried and succeeded, as follows:

Room rent	$2.00
Meals and lunches	2.50
Carfares	.50
Clothing	1.00
Amusements	.50
To put by for a rainy day	1.50
Total	$8.00

MISS MARY MARTIN.

No. 21 Liverpool street, Boston.

Supported Boy on $6.

I have been reading your paper for years. I could not do without the AMERICAN evenings and Sundays. It is my only friend. I spend my even ing in my room reading it. I have been reading with great interest about women's wage. Can a woman life self-respecting on $6 per week? Well, I will tell how I have lived self-respecting on $6 per week with my little boy seven years old. I work in a store and I boarded with a private family. My sister boarded my boy, for which I paid her $4.

Board	$3.00
Boy's board	2.00
Carfare	.90
American	.15
Insurance	.45
Total	$6.50
Balance for clothing—no amusements or candy	M. T. B.

Roxbury.

Much Depends on the Girl.

A living wage of less than $8 a week for the average working girl is not enough. Two girls by rooming together and living economically can meet expenses and live comfortably.

A great deal depends on the girl herself, the wiser one spending on nourishing, well-cooked food, rather than extravagant clothing.

My idea is to look out for one's physical condition in order to keep one's health; secondly, dress neatly and live naturally.

Here are the exact figures of two girls with a joint salary of $16.00: Room with light housekeeping privileges, including heat, light, laundry.....$4.00

Breakfasts and evening lunches cooked at home	2.00
Good substantial dinners (12 at 25c)	3.00
Total	$12.00

This leaves $4.80 for church, entertainment and clothing. By the way, these girls have purchased a second-hand sewing machine and are doing nobly with dressmaking.

West Lynn. L. E.

Bought Own Furniture.

For three years I received $7. I left lodging houses and bought $75 worth of furniture. My expense account follows:

Rent	$2.25
Gas	.25
Coal	.50
Groceries	1.50
Insurance pay.	.50
Total	$5.00

I did my washing at night, made my own clothes, trimmed my hats. took only a few evenings out for no amusement, and walked to and from my work.

Later I got a situation that paid $8. I had paid for my furniture and had some money saved, so I moved downtown to a better location, where I now pay:

Rent	$5.00
Gas	.25
Coal	.50
Groceries	2.00
Total	$8.00

The remainder is spent on the hous and for a few necessary clothing. No gilt goods $10 hat, no five. She can exist on $7 or $8. But if sickness or dull times come, she need not worry for a few days. MAIL.

DOCK HANDS AGAIN TALKING STRIKE

Imminent danger of another longshoremen's strike in this city is said to exist by labor leaders in close touch with the situation. The relations between the men's unions and the steamship agents are so strained that a speedy meeting of the Longshoremen's Council has been called for tomorrow night. A readjustment of their present wage and working condition scale is demanded.

YALE SENIOR IN A CELL; SPURNS BAIL

NEW HAVEN, Jan. 20.—Edmund Pendleton, a Yale senior, has gone to jail, refusing proffered bail to prevent him from being locked up while he is awaiting trial charged with the accidental fire alarm hoax just to witness the excitement. Pendleton makes no secret of his act and says that he wishes to take his medicine.

To-day's Stock Prices; Financial News

There was no improvement in stock markets at the opening today and copper shares felt the effects of the slump in the warrants market in London. In New York they were the weakest group in early trading. Railways were hesitant because of the possibility of a Minnesota rate case decision today. Locally the market tone was easier at the opening and there was no improvement during the first hour or so.

It is announced that Attorney-General Wickersham, Judge Lovett, Mortimer L. Schiff and Frank A. Vanderlip will confer in Washington on the Union Pacific-Southern Pacific dissolution plan tomorrow instead of today.

The Pullman Company has declared its usual quarterly dividend of $2 a share.

Cotton Prices Weaken.

First prices in the New York cotton market were from 13 to 17 points lower. Commission houses were free sellers and there was pressure from the South. Temporary support from one of two local interests soon ceased and the market declined further after the call. New low records for the movement were established on all leading positions.

New York Market Weak.

The New York market was dull at the opening and quickly turned weak. There was no confidence on the part of traders and they were disposed to await United States Supreme Court action and learn if the Minnesota Rate case is to be decided today before committing themselves far. Another cause of hesitancy was uncertainty as to the situation in the Balkans.

American Tobacco was one of the strong stocks at the beginning, showing a gain of 4¾ points over Saturday's closing price. Coppers were weak. Amalgamated was off ¾ and the same amount of loss was sustained by Chino. Ray Consolidated lost ⅝ and Utah Copper declined ½. American Smelting was unchanged during the first fifteen minutes. The weakness was due to reports of another possible decline in metal prices. Steel common was ⅛ lower and a similar decline was covered by Atchison. Southern Pacific was unchanged. Union Pacific began ⅛ lower but subsequently recovered a part of this loss. Among the advances were American Cotton Oil ⅝, Mexican Petroleum ⅝ and St. Paul ⅜.

The Curb was steady.

Americans in London hesitated.

More Gold Going Abroad.

The Lazard Freres announced this morning that they have engaged $2,000,000 more in gold for shipment to Europe by tomorrow's steamship. This brings the exportation of precious metal during this movement up to more than $40,000,000. The movement to South America has been very small, but it is likely to become quite large before long.

The monetary situation in France is peculiar. Since the war began in the Balkans pessimists and others have been steadily withdrawing gold from banks and parding it. Although general fear of a widespread war in Europe has practically passed, French working people are not convinced that the peril is over. The recollection of the German invasion of their country about forty years ago is very vivid.

Copper Slumps in London.

The London copper warrants market became the week with a slump, spot opening £2 8s. 9d lower and futures being off £2 10s.

Cablegrams state that the market was demoralized during the morning. Afterwards, it is reported, there was a little more buying of electrolytic. It is said that the American Smelting quotations there for its copper was at the rate of 16¾ cents a pound, and that Amalgamated and others asked 16½ cents. The situation remains such that American consumers will delay buying copper supplies as long as possible.

It was said in New York this morning: "The drop in the price from 17¼c. to 16¼c. a pound has proved that no consolidation could indefinitely maintain an arbitrary, fixed price irrespective of conditions.

"It is expected in the trade that a 16½-cent level will be maintained, with a tendency toward advances, particularly as strong requirements will be made by the transportation companies who have been able to float or finance their requirements. As foreign buyers have only filled their immediate wants, any improvement in the foreign political situation will bring them into the market to a considerable extent."

Financial News in Brief.

The plant of the American Sewer Pipe Company at East Liverpool will resume operations about February 1, after being shut down for two years.

Orders booked by the Westinghouse Machine Company since December are said to total about $250,000.

The Boston Land Company reports that receipts for 1912 totalled $146,462. Expenditures were $159,910, and at the close of the year cash on hand amounted to $338 against $14,790 at the end of 1911.

It is said that the annual report by Manager Fitch of the Chief Consolidated mines for 1912 will show that approximately 31,000 tons of ore were sold at a profit of about $312,000. The company is said to have been making, recently, twice its dividend requirements.

Some of the ten iron ore freight steamships to be built for the Bethlehem Steel Corporation by Harrison Canal unit, will be constructed at the Union Iron Works in San Francisco. Others will be built at the New York Ship Building Company's Delaware River plant, and one may be constructed at Sparrow Point, Md. Contracts for the vessels will be awarded, it is expected, within ten days. The Bethlehem plant will furnish the steel of which they are built.

In the New York stock market last week sixty per cent. of all transactions were in Steel, Reading, Amalgamated and Union Pacific and they showed declines ranging from 2⅜ to 4⅝ points.

Mild weather and absence of snow has not improved the outlook for the Winter wheat crop in this country.

The New York sub-treasury gained $1,375,000 from the banks on Saturday and has gained $3,532,000 since Friday.

Are You in Favor of Punishing Big Rascals?

You Can Write a Letter That Will Do Great Good. SEND IT.

Copyright, 1913, by American-Journal-Examiner

It really begins to look possible, even in THIS country, to get after the big criminals at last.

There has never been much trouble about punishing the little fellows. Our big jails have always been more than comfortably filled with the men guilty of stealing small things, from a loaf of bread to a horse and buggy. We have been jailing little criminals in bunches. But to get the men that steal the national law making machinery with bribes is a new idea.

YOU, as an earnest citizen, can help now to get justice for some of the big rascals.

The Clapp Committee at Washington is investigating Standard Oil bribery, the buying of Senators by corporations.

Senator Clapp and the other members of the committee want to know what the public thinks about dishonesty and corruption on a big scale. You will help considerably if you will write a letter to Senator Clapp, telling what you and your friends think about Archbold, of the Standard Oil, Bailey, Foraker, Penrose and the rest of them.

If you are too busy to write a letter, cut out the letter below and mail it with a two-cent stamp addressed to Senator Clapp, The Capitol, Washington, D. C.

CUT THIS OUT—MAIL IT.

To Senator Clapp,

The Capitol, Washington, D. C.:

Dear Sir—I respectfully lay before you my opinion, as an American voter, in regard to the investigation which your honorable committee is now conducting into corruption and bribery of public officials by corporations, and ask that you show this letter to the members of your committee.

I believe the United States is infinitely better off for the absence of such men as Bailey and Foraker from the lawmaking body.

I consider John D. Archbold, of the Standard Oil, the man whose letters convict him of using his money to influence legislation, as a dangerous element in society, one who has done what he could to destroy the republican government under which his wealth has been accumulated.

I congratulate you and the committee on your effort to bring out the facts, and I urge you to further more drastic and relentless examination and investigation of the system which enables money, organized in corporations, to control so largely the government of the United States.

In denouncing Archbold, Foraker, Bailey and the others made conspicuous by the Standard Oil letters, I express the opinion of all the fellow citizens with whom I have talked.

I assure you that the voters of this country will feel very much relieved, and will greatly rejoice, if the work of your committee shall emphasize the fact that givers and takers of bribes will ply their trade in future at great personal risk.

It is my opinion that the individuals connected with the Standard Oil cases of bribery and corruption, whether they be givers of bribes or receivers of bribes, should be not merely reprimanded or dismissed from office, but criminally prosecuted and put in jail.

I know only too well that if these men were ordinary citizens, without great wealth or influence, they would have been jailed long ago for conduct less harmful to the public.

Assuring you of my confidence in your intentions and in that of your committee, and trusting that the results of your work will be of such a character as to diminish bribe giving in legislative bodies, and to impress fear of public opinion, even upon corporation corruptionists, in the future, I am, yours respectfully,

Never Let SICK Children Play with Money, or Cats or Dogs—And Don't Let WELL Children Do That Either

It Is Strange That This Advice Should Be Necessary, but It Is

Copyright, 1913, by American-Journal-Examiner

Disease is sent travelling around in our cities constantly on coins and bills.

In this American country, where we hear of very little except "money, millionaires, hundred thousands, and MILLIONS," naturally children are much excited when they see real money and hear all that it means.

A wise man informs us that diseases are spread very largely in this and in other cities, BECAUSE PARENTS GIVE TO THEIR CHILDREN WHEN THEY ARE ILL MONEY TO USE AS A PLAYTHING.

The child that has the scarlet fever or some other contagious disease, not yet recognized or correctly diagnosed, lies ill in bed, flushed, feverish, and the father or mother gives that child money to keep it quiet.

Later on, something is needed, a bottle of milk, perhaps, and the money goes from the sick child to buy the bottle of milk. And that money spreads disease germs, perhaps among half a dozen families.

There are many things that a newspaper must do in the way of denouncing mistakes, big and little. We had not known until recently that it was necessary to tell parents not to let sick children play with money and scatter disease broadcast.

Once more, we tell parents also not to let children, sick or well, play with cats or dogs.

Every cat and every dog travels about, collecting disease germs. The fur of these animals gathers up disease germs as a broom gathers up dirt.

The child holding in its arms a cat, a kitten, a dog, or a puppy, HAS ITS FACE, MOUTH AND NOSE CLOSE TO DISEASE GERMS.

While the child is very healthy, it may fight off disease. When it gets a little weak, is kept indoors, "needs amusement" and plays with the cat, the disease germs overpower the protective forces in the body, and disease starts.

And it is usually when the child is confined to the house, and "not feeling very well," that the disease-bearing cat or dog is dragged in to keep the child company.

KEEP YOUR CHILDREN AWAY FROM ANIMALS OF ALL KINDS.

Never let children play with money, sick or well—especially sick. Keep their minds off of money as long as you can, and on more wholesome things.

Keep cats and dogs away from your children. Be wiser than those who endanger children's health under the impression that cats and dogs are good "for the little dears."

A Midwinter Day Dream

By WINSOR M'CAY

WE'RE BACK FROM OUR HONEY MOON. YES! AND WANT YOU TO DINE WITH US—
YES, I WANT YOU TO MEET MY SQUAW!
SHE'S A PEACH! YOU'LL BE GLAD TO MEET HER!
BELIEVE ME, MY WIFE IS SOME DOLL
YOU BET I'M HAPPY WITH MY BIRDIE!
SHE CERTAINLY IS A REAL SWELL CHICKEN!
YOU AND THE MRS. COME UP AND MEET MY LITTLE DUCK!
YOU'LL SAY SHE'S A BEAR, I KNOW YOU WILL!
COME RIGHT UP!
GEE! I WAS DREAMING! HUH!

Wife and Motherhood—Complete Devotion to Children Often Drives Cupid from the Former's Side.

By Ella Wheeler Wilcox

THE devoted mother, absorbed in her children, is an admirable being ofttimes.

But it depends upon the extent of her absorption, whether she is really admirable or not.

She has been known to drive Cupid from her side; to destroy the happiness of her home; and to obliterate beauty and charm from her personality.

A pretty girl married a young man of her own age.

He was proud of her attractive appearance; and he loved to see her attired in dainty garments, and to take her forth pleasuring. They were great comrades, and friends, and his pet name for her was "Little Pal."

By and by the baby came; and it was a new delight in both lives. It seemed for a time to add much, and to take away nothing.

But as the newness of fatherhood passed the husband was conscious that he received little attention from his wife. She was rarely able to go out with him. There was always something which required her presence at home even when provided with a nurse, or the assistance of competent relatives to look after the baby.

Mother Soon Neglects Her Personal Appearance

And when she did go, she was restless to be back with the baby. After the second child came, it was still more a decided fact that the husband was eliminated for the children in the thoughts of the wife.

Besides forgetting his needs of her companionship, the wife forgot to make herself attractive. All her pretty woman's vanity was put aside.

She coiled her lovely hair in a tight unbecoming knot. She wore plain garments; with no little touches of grace and beauty which a man loves to see about a woman.

She said she had no time for such vanities; she was absorbed in maternal duties; the holiest duties of life.

She urged her husband to be sensible, and see how she was situated and not expect too much of her.

He ceased to expect anything of her save her duties as a mother after a time. So he sought his comradeship at the club, and in stag parties; and then after a time, he found widows, and single women and the wives of other men, companionable.

He observed that many women were good mothers and good comrades and sociable citizens at the same time; and made up his mind that he had married a woman who was only capable of being a devoted mother and so he left her to fill her sphere.

As time passed, the woman grew prematurely old; from lack of attention, her physical charms faded; but she believed she had sacrificed them on the altar of motherhood.

Her hair was dry, and began to grow grizzly gray; merely because she took no time to brush it, and feed its roots with oil, and to coax and love it into becomingness and beauty.

A woman's hair, like a vine or a plant, responds to care and thought and affection; and fades from lack of it.

Her complexion, once soft and full of movable blooms, became sallow and parched for the same reason—lack of care.

As the Twig Is Bent So the Tree Is Inclined

And all the time the woman believed she had given her charms to her children, and that she was a martyr to maternal duty.

There was no subject on which she and her husband could meet in sympathy, save the children; and even there they disagreed; for he told her she was making them selfish by giving her whole life to them; and that they would be better off, were she to consider herself, and her husband, and her friends to some degree, and teach her children to wait upon her instead of being a willing slave to their caprices and pleasures.

He was absolutely right; and time proved it.

The son and daughter took her devotion as a matter of course, and when they married, the daughter expected her husband to be her slave, because her mother had been; and the son expected the same sacrifices from his wife that his mother had made; and both were disappointed; and so three families were unhappy, through the short-sighted outlook and narrow understanding of one woman.

When a woman marries, her first duty is to her husband. That means that she is to make herself in every possible way his comrade, friend, companion and helpmeet.

She is to keep herself physically charming, mentally awake, and spiritually in advance of him; and if she does the first two, he will be ready to follow her in the third path, to such extent as the masculine soul can follow the feminine on this planet.

And if she does all these things, with high ideals regarding them, she is sure to be a good mother, and a good neighbor, and a good friend as well.

UNDER THE PUJO TREE

By PERCY SHAW

THERE'S a Mecca for the weary;
'Tis a calling all the day
With a voice as warm and cheery
As a siren's roundelay.
And it sings this touching ditty—
"Come to me! Oh, come to me;
Come, ye captains of the city,
Underneath the Pujo tree.

"We will feast you upon queries
With a monetary twist;
We will soothe you with a series
Of monopolistic grist;
We will add so to your pleasure
That you'll always think with glee
Of your happy hours of leisure
Underneath the Pujo tree.

"If you've throttled competition
With a ruthless, iron hand;
If you've shown a disposition
To be monarch of the land
We'll regale you with a session
So delightful that you'll see
How debased was your impression
Of the spreading Pujo tree.

"Come, ye generals substantial!
Come, ye barons rich with pelf!
Come, ye captains financial,
Speak no word about yourself.
Tell us what you think the nation
Ought to know and you will be
Adding to the reputation
Of the famous Pujo tree."
